

Are Fairies Real?

By Lucy Lowell

LITTLE girl just 12 years old wants to know if it's true that fairies are real. She writes me in a big round hand, and that begins "Once upon a time" and tell about a beautiful princess and prince who by on milk-white steeds and—

Well, don't we all? No matter who we are or how wise we have been with much living, or how critical or workaday, don't we the old, joyous thrill over that we are upon a time?

Now this little girl has heard that fairies are real, truly. A man came from England in pictures of fairies and explained that they have the job of making the coloring plants and the rain fall and bringing sunshine.

Ordinary grown ups he explained, they look like tiny clouds with a spark in the center of each.

To children they appear just as they are—beautiful little creatures out of the land of once upon a time.

And this little 12-year-old has told her mother and her teacher, never so many other grown ups, that they would say the man is crazy. But they didn't and she never said ever so disappointed.

Now she writes to me and asks to know what I think. Are fairies real?

Certainly they are real, my dear! If ever you have any doubt about it just go into the country on a fine, summer morning and you'll see where they live and in many things about them that be you've never even guessed yet.

You will see, for one thing, tens of gleaming, gauzy webs all tangled on the grass in the sun. This is their laundry hung out to dry. You may say it's only cobwebs with the dew on; you know better.

These are the frocks they wear as they dance in the moonlight on the marches and down the lane, and don't ever let any one to convince you this isn't true, then you'll see only fog and webs instead of their graceful webs.

And if you can find an evergreen—a spruce tree, maybe—you'll find the magic circle under the boughs the fairy feet have worn the grass the night before.

And the old-timers say it's only the risk of falling dead which wear the blades you just smile and don't argue. Otherwise it will be that to you.

And there are dozens of other ways to prove how real fairies are. You don't know that their wings draw the beautiful white mountains and flowers and all sorts of lovely things on the window-pane, cold winter mornings?

But don't think fairies make rain fall or bring the sunshine build the plants. Real fairies make too light and carefree happy thoughts, and those are at they are made of actually, all friend.

Of course, fairies are real!

INVENTOR, DIES
IN NEW JERSEY

Expert on Explosives Was 74 Years Old and Had Been Ill for the Last Two Months.

By the Associated Press.
LAKE HOPATCONG, N. J., May 6.—Hudson Maxim, inventor, died at his home at 5:45 this afternoon. He was 74 years old and had been suffering from anemia and stomach trouble for the last two months.

Maxim, Once a Wrestler, Became Explosives Expert.

Hudson Maxim, inventor of more concentrated destruction" in the form of high explosives, smokeless powder and automobile torpedoes, than any other man in the United States, was a life-long hater of war; a staunch advocate of arbitration, and the self-appointed guardian of a thousand little birds that nested in the great trees of his estate in New Jersey.

Two of Maxim's discoveries in his experiments with high explosives may be said to have revolutionized modern warfare. They were the first smokeless powder made in America and the first to be adopted by the United States Government; and "maximite," the first high explosive ever successfully employed in armor-piercing projectiles.

In addition to these, he invented a steam-propelled torpedo and perfected a rifle shell with a speed of a mile a second.

Hudson Maxim as a boy received practically no education, yet as a self-taught scientist, he came close to the ambition of Goethe, "to make all knowledge his own." He was nine years old before he learned the alphabet, and despite the violent winters of his native New Jersey, he was 16 before he first heard of steam and his first boat.

He pitched home for three days to earn 75 cents to buy his first geography, which he might look up "France" to see where Napoleon used to live.

Very respectfully,
Son of a Student.

The senior Maxim, although a poor miller, was an insatiable student. Philosophy, history, science, astronomy and the mystery of space and eternity were the subjects discussed at his fireside, hence his children came early and naturally by their love of serious subjects. He also possessed a remarkable memory, which was inherited by Hudson in generous measure.

When nearly 70 years of age, the latter could recite from memory all he had learned, which he had not seen since his school days.

Against odds, Hudson Maxim chose to obtain an education.

Choosing the most difficult courses offered at Kent's Hill, Maine, he completed his academic studies at the age of 25, and graduated with a wide knowledge of chemistry, engineering and the natural sciences. Hardly was he out of school when he had formulated the hypothesis of the compound nature of so-called atoms, which has become a generally accepted theory within the last few years.

Invented Color Printing.

A young man he first advised upon the printing and publishing business as a career spent five years in the work at Pittsfield, Mass. Even at this time his inventive mind was working, with the result that he originated the process for color printing which was tried out on the Evening Journal of Pittsfield, said to have been the first daily newspaper issued in the United States.

His love of chemistry, however, was not finding sufficient expression in the printing business, and he was involved only because with Glenn Hicks Saturday

"I did not."
"Were you excited at the time?"
"More dazed than excited."
"But not so dazed but that little time before you had a presence of mind enough to take your glasses off before going to the piano room?"
"I did take glasses off."

Denies Mrs. Snyder's Story.
"Did you hear Mrs. Snyder say that before the killing took a revolver away from you and put it on the piano?"
"The what she said?"

"Isn't that true?"
"It is not."
"Never saw that pistol until it was tied up."

"But you knew the pistol was in the house and that you had weapon but the sawhilt and you didn't ask Mrs. Snyder for pistol?"
"That is right."

Suddenly Wallace turned to see with a curt "That is all."

Patrolman Adam W. Schuermann, 23 years old, attached to the Mounted District, died at City Hospital from two bullet wounds in the head suffered shortly before noon today at his home, 5141 Rosemead, under circumstances which police are investigating.

Schuermann, who was the son of Patrolman William Schuermann of the Soulard District, was relieved from duty at 7 a.m. today following breakfast he went to bed according to his mother. She before noon the mother heard shots and found her son wounded, alongside of which lay a service revolver containing empty cartridges.

Mrs. Schuermann summoned ambulance and police and Schuermann was taken to the hospital. The mother told police her son had been exhausted and his revolver was off duty and believed the fact that the shooting was accident. Due to the fact that Schuermann was hot twice police are inclined to believe he shot himself possibly.

Schuermann was appointed patrolman Feb. 1926, and was promoted patrolman last month. He was married and resided with his parents.

A 6% Investment That Eliminates Risk

The principles upon which old line building and loan associations are conducted have been proven mathematically correct by nearly a century of experience.

Risk has been practically eliminated by the legal requirement of protecting all funds by non-negotiable first deeds of trust. Such deeds now owned by the Economy Building and Loan Association are now 3½ times the value of our outstanding shares.

HIGHER LEVEES TO

port and urge upon all of the members, and all of the people of the country, immediate and generous response to the appeal of the President of the United States for funds. These agencies should likewise undertake the solution of the problems of reconstruction which are urgent and which should have the same support from the people.

Looking to the Future.

"Together with these immediate problems of relief and reconstruction the country faces the task of attempting to assure the people of the Mississippi Valley against further flood disasters. This task presents problems of the greatest magnitude. In solving these the Federal Government should take the leadership and assume the responsibility, with all the appropriate assistance from the regions involved."

The President of the United States has moved quickly to mobilize the Government agencies which have experience and information with respect to the problems of the Mississippi and tributaries, and has placed at the head of the government's activities in developing the plan the Secretary of Commerce, in whose devotion and ability, and in those of his associates we have the utmost confidence.

"The size of the task which is before the country and the importance of arriving at a program which will assure, so far as is humanly possible, permanent elevation, make it appropriate that the President of the United States should enlist the best engineering and economic ability and experience that the country affords to advise him with respect to the larger factors which will necessarily be involved."

Proposes Flood Committee.

"The Chamber of Commerce of the United States should have an able committee to consider the suggestions which may be made from all sources, private or official, and make to its board of directors any recommendations which it may consider appropriate for chamber action."

"Meanwhile, we extend to the people of these affected areas and to all agencies concerned with immediate problems of relief and reconstruction and the responsibility of planning for the future, the fullest co-operation and the services of all of the Chamber's facilities. It is our hope and belief that when the President's program is developed in such a manner as we have suggested it will be immediately accepted by Congress and made a subject of legislation directed solely to the protection of the Mississippi Valley without complication on account of conditions elsewhere."

Kept From Building Spillway.

George H. Maxwell, of New Orleans, secretary of the National Reclamation Association, said: "Three years ago Col. Mark D. Townsend, for many years president of the Mississippi River Commission, said the restoration of the Cypress Creek spillway would reduce flood heights to 16 feet at New Orleans. At this moment the water is over 20 feet. The people of New Orleans pleaded to be allowed to build this spillway, but were denied the privilege by the army engineers of the Mississippi River Commission."

"It would have cost them $5,000,000. Now the cost is to a cost of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 to cover the damage to people who have been driven from their homes or order that the city might survive by the cutting of Poydras levee."

L. J. Folse, of Jackson, Miss. "It is time for the business men of the country to analyze the situation and then say to congress: 'Wipe out the present peanut politicians, put in a business program and if the army engineers are picked to do the job, give them all the power and money necessary and tell them to go to it.'

Col. Paul Giddens on Report.

Col. Charles L. Potter, president of the Mississippi River Commission at St. Louis, has been instructed by Major-General Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, to revise the commission's plan for control on the Mississippi River. The complete report is to be made by Oct. 1. Partial reports are to be rushed to Washington before that date if practicable.

Hoover and Dwight Davis at Vicksburg.

By the Associated Press.

VICKSBURG, Miss., May 6.—Secretary Hoover, Secretary of War Davis and Major-General Edgar Jadwin, chief of United States engineers, arrived here today for a series of conferences before going farther south later today on the Government steamer Control.

The visitors conferred with Gov. Murphy, L. O. Crosby, State relief director, and Mississippi relief committee. Later Secretary Hoover conferred with Red Cross officials, while Secretary Davis met officials of the National Guard and War Department authorities. The party planned to make a stop at Natchez to look over the situation there.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS MILITARY CAMP WEEK

Intensive Campaign Being Made for Students at Jefferson Barracks This Summer.

In connection with the intensive drive for students for the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Jefferson Barracks July 7 to Aug. 5, Mayor Miller yesterday issued a proclamation announcing that the week of May 15 will be observed as "C. M. T. C. Week" in St. Louis.

The proclamation stresses the benefits to be derived by the youth taking the month's course offered by the Government.

"These training camps are of especial benefit to the young men of America, not only from a standpoint of military training and equipping them for any emergency that might arise, but they are splendid in the way of building American citizenship," Mayor Miller said. "At the same time these camps offer diversion from ordinary business pursuits and should be encouraged by all our citizens."

The "C. M. T. C. Week" campaign will be conducted in the direction of committees headed by civic leaders and army officers. The program will include the broadcasting of addresses from local radio stations, motion pictures of activities at previous camps and parades and aerial maneuvers by the personnel of Jefferson Barracks, Scott Field and the National Guard Air Unit.

St. Louis fell behind in furnishing students at the last camp and an effort will be made to obtain the usual quota of 480 during the week of May 15.

The joint committees in charge of the campaign include Carl F. G. Meyer, former president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce; Col. A. T. Perkins of the United Railways Co.; Gen. E. J. Spencer, retired; Col. Moon N. Falls, commanding Jefferson Barracks; Col. Ola Bell, chief of staff of the 102d Division, Reserve; and Lieutenant-Colonel John Paegelow, commanding of Scott Field.

TWO RUNAWAY BOYS CAUGHT
Granite City Lads Held in St. Louis County.

The sightseeing expedition to the West of two 13-year-old Granite City school boys was interrupted yesterday afternoon when Deputy Constables of St. Louis County arrested them on complaint that they were looting mail boxes on the Clayton road. Each of the boys was armed with a revolver when arrested.

The boys identified themselves as Harold La Resche of 2314 Edwards street and Harvey Wilson of 2246 G street. They had taken nothing of value from the mail boxes. La Resche admitted stealing the bicycle on which he planned to make the westward journey from a schoolmate. The bicycle Wilson was riding belonged to him. Their parents were notified and they were held for juvenile authorities.

TELLS OF HUNT FOR FLOWERS

G. M. Pring, St. Louis Garden horticulturist, who recently returned from Panama, told of his hunt for flowers in Central America last night at a meeting of the Architectural Club, 514 Culver Way.

John A. Bryan, newly elected president of the club, was formally installed in office at the meeting. Other new officers are: Harry F. Westerholz, first vice president; Edward Bruegeman, second vice president; Arthur T. Grindon, secretary, and Richard S. Johnson, treasurer.

MRS. EARLEEN Houser DIES

Mrs. Earleen Houser, 23 years old, of 7215 Chipping Drive, University City, died last night at Missouri Baptist Sanatorium after two weeks' illness. She is survived by her husband, Victor C. Houser, president of the Barnes-Crosby Co.; her mother, Mrs. Metta Wheeler, and two sons, Wing and Robert.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at an undertaking establishment at 4449 Olive street, followed by cremation.

FRENCH PRESENT ECONOMIC LEAGUE OF NATIONS PLAN

Loucheur Would Organize Trusts in European Industries, Controlled by Central Body.

Special Cable to the New York World and the Post-Dispatch. Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., Inc., New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

GENEVA, May 6.—An economic confederation of Europe, with industrial blocs administered by an international committee in Geneva, but not connected with the League of Nations, is proposed in a resolution by Louis Loucheur, French industrialist and politician, offered in the economic conference.

During his speech on the success of the existing metallurgical cartel composed of France, Germany, Belgium and Luxembourg, Loucheur advocates inclusion of all industry in gigantic trusts. The Permanent International Committee would be the cementing factor, as the League is the central organization for political activities. The committee would be empowered to encourage and organize cartellized blocs, even allocating markets and raw materials in accordance with voluntary agreements.

The Russians are already peddling concessions, but as the delegation pointed out with the opposition to soviet regime, the validity of any agreements they make is problematical.

Senior Urzua of Chile advocated a uniform international currency, arguing that paper money is the ruination of peoples and governments.

International Business Bloc.

By the Associated Press.

Jouhaux, French labor leader, yesterday moved the creation of a new economic organism at Geneva, which would be for economic matters what the existing League of Nations council is for political questions. The French project proposes an international economic council of 18 members, representing various world economic interests, and also the institution of a consultative conference which would meet at least once in three years and survey the world situation.

British Union View.

Further indication of the tendency to concentrate the permanent study of economic problems more completely in the League of Nations was furnished by the recommendation of the British Trade Union Congress that the League collect information on international trusts with a view to safeguarding the interests of consumers and producers and making representations to the Governments when grievances arise. Conversely, Governments should have the right to appeal to the League when they consider themselves unfairly treated by international trade organizations. The memorial warns that unless economic rivalries are controlled in the interest of all peoples stable peace will be impossible in the world.

Discusses Tariffs.

Tetsutaro Shidachi, Japanese delegate, in a speech said that the "outstanding and unfortunate" world tendencies are the post-war protective tariffs, monopolistic control of raw material and inequitable distribution of population. The discriminatory treatment of persons and goods, he said, was an obstacle of commerce. The economic unrest and incessant internal strife in China were a source of great concern to all nations, especially Japan, and he hoped peace would come, thus opening to the world China's vast resources.

The Japanese delegation, he said, was not present at the Japanese financial crisis, which was due to lack of foresight and the maladministration of the authorities and mismanagement of some banking concerns. He was confident Japan would recover, though readjustment would demand careful study and discussion.

Swiss Relax Police Guard When Russians Protest.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, May 6.—According to the request of the Soviet economic conference delegation for reducing of the police surveillance to which they have been subject since their arrival, the Swiss authorities today removed the uniformed police guard from the lobby of the Russians' hotel.

The authorities also consented to the removal of the wooden barriers set up in front of the Russians' hotel, designed to keep out the public, also to discontinue supervision of telephone calls for the Russians.

The hovering plain clothes men and uniformed policemen hampered their movements, the Russians said—the Swiss are not forgetting the murder of Vaslav Vorovsky at the Lausanne conference in 1923. Finally the Russian delegation demanded whether they were prisoners or envoys threatening to cease attendance at the economic conference if the police were not more inconspicuous.

Soviets Demand Equal Treatment on Threat to Withdraw.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, May 6.—An official telegraph agency statement declares the Soviet government instructed Valerian Obolensky Ossinsky, chief Soviet delegate, to demand that the Soviet delegates be assured full equality with the other delegations, regarding participation in the debates, failing which

MINERS' FORMER PRESIDENT CAUSES CONVENTION UPROAR

Brophy, Denied Seat as Delegate by Close Vote, Tried to Answer Charges.

By the Associated Press
DUBOIS, Pa., May 6.—John Brophy, former president of District No. 10, United Mine Workers of America, threw the biennial convention of the district into an uproar yesterday when he tried to take the floor to answer counter charges preferred against him by Phillip Murray, International vice president, who defended John L. Lewis, International president.

Brophy arose as soon as President James Martin opened the session. He faced his audience, shouting above the noise of the pounds of the gavel. Two agents-at-arms rushed down the aisle, delegates leaped to their feet and the president ceased to pound his gavel. Brophy suddenly stopped talking and resumed his seat as a spectator. He had been denied a seat as a delegate after a close vote.

One of Brophy's followers then moved that Brophy be allowed to take the chair, while another from an opposing faction amended the measure, restricting Brophy's privilege to the floor. The amended motion was carried by a margin of 14 votes. Murray was not present at the meeting.

Corner Stone to Be Laid Tomorrow.
The corner stone of the new building on the 9th floor, Home on Kirkwood road, in Kirkwood, is to be laid at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow. The structure, which is to be ready by autumn, will replace one erected 21 years ago and now crowded to capacity, with 30 residents.

Diaso Passanante, Wanted Here for Concealing Assets in Bankruptcy Case, Arrested in Philadelphia.

BOY KNOWN AS MUSICAL GENIUS

Inquiry in Musical Circles Disclosed the Child Had Given Concerts in the Pennsylvania City.

The arrest at Philadelphia last Tuesday of Diaso Passanante, alias Alfredo C. Stallone, former proprietor of the Naples Cafe here, under an indictment charging him and 18 other Italians with conspiring to conceal assets of G. Portaro & Bro., was brought about by tracing the family to Philadelphia through a photograph of Passanante's 10-year-old son, a musical genius.

Passanante, or Stallone, as he was known to a large number of St. Louisans and police, is alleged to have been one of the "men behind the scenes" in the operation of the Portaro company and the subsequent concealment of assets. Prior to his disappearance from St. Louis following the discovery of a 250-gallon still in a garage at his $20,000 University City home in January, 1925, Stallone was president of the St. Louis Grand Opera Co., which gave three performances at the Odeon in March, 1924. The opera company became involved in financial difficulties and the Sheriff took charge of the box office.

On Remarkable Pianist. During the same year Stallone's son, then 7 years old, was the "star" of an amateur musical recital. The child performed at the piano in a remarkable manner for one of his years and his photograph was published in a St. Louis newspaper. Department of Justice agents seeking to arrest the elder Stallone, or Passanante, his real name according to the agents, remembered the photograph of the child and forwarded a copy to the Washington headquarters. Inquiry in musical circles disclosed that the child had been featured at recitals in Philadelphia and the father was located there and arrested.

The arrest of Passanante was followed by the release for publication of the indictment charging the 18 men with conspiring to conceal assets of the Portaro company worth $20,000. The defendants, all of whom except Passanante had previously been arrested and furnished bond, are charged with committing 54 overt acts in concealing corn sugar, five-gallon tin cans, cheese, olive oil, and canned goods in contemplation that bankruptcy proceedings would be brought against the company. The indictment was returned by the Federal grand jury last February following a report by Joseph M. Heardon, receiver, that he had obtained evidence that the assets numerated had been concealed.

Due to the fact that Portaro & Bro., located at 1025 Franklin avenue, were found to have dealt largely in corn sugar and tin cans such as moonshiners use, Federal authorities began an investigation of the case immediately after the concern was placed in bankruptcy last December with debts of $23,000 and but $1400 in assets. The petition in bankruptcy was filed against the concern by creditors who had sold the concern large shipments of corn sugar and cans on credit.

At a hearing before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles, Santi Castelli, one of the men indicted, was identified by creditors as a man they understood to be "one of the Portaros." Castelli is named in the indictment as "Talias Giuseppe Portaro" and Giovanni De Carlo, another of the defendants, is listed as "Talias Giovanni Portaro."

The others indicted, in addition to Passanante, De Carlo, and Castelli, are Tom Natale, a city lamp lighter; Vincenzo Pezzano, alias Vincent Holland; Joe Lacota, Giuseppe Scarpato, Vincenzo Chiana, Romano Grischauser, Charles Luigi Commarata, Rosario Barracca, Savaro Caputa and Cusumano, all of St. Louis, and Frank Zito, Leonardi Ciacco, Vincenzo Salvo and Sam Tony Strow of Springfield, Ill.

Passanante Glyes Bond.

Passanante gave bond of $7500 at Philadelphia insuring his appearance here at the September term of Federal Court. The maximum punishment for concealing assets is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Passanante got into difficulties here with police, who declared his cafe at 127 De Baliviere avenue, became "a den of iniquity" between midnight and 5 a.m. He was fined $25 in police court for conducting a noisy and disorderly establishment when neighbors corroborated the testimony of police. Following the discovery of the still and a quantity of brewing alcohol in the process of manufacture into liquor to be sold under fancy labels at the garage at 7117 Cornell avenue, University City, Mrs. Passanante was fined $500 and costs by Justice Ladd on a charge of possession of liquor. Stallone disappeared from the time and apparently was forgotten until the inquiry in the Portaro case was begun.

wear Selz Shoes"

IT should mean a good bit to you when we can say that about a shoe—the confidence men have in these shoes makes it easy for you. The more you know about shoes, the more you'll appreciate the value of these. From coast to coast many men wear the well-known Selz $Six. Here is a tan brogue for the young fellows—smart perforations and rope stitching—a typical college model.

STARKLOFF ASSAIS CHIROPRACTIC LAW

Health Commissioner Says Two Appointees to Board Had Been Under Charges.

The two doctors of chiropractic named by Gov. Baker for the State Examining Board were under charges in St. Louis for practicing medicine without a license when the claim was brought before the Legislature. Dr. Max Starkloff, City Health Commissioner, said yesterday at a luncheon given by the Women's Chamber of Commerce, honoring Health day, at the City Club.

Dr. Starkloff made this declaration in the course of a bitter attack upon chiropractic:

"I think the Legislature enacted the most nefarious measure in its history." Dr. Starkloff said, "when it attempted to legitimize this infamous, outrageous practice of medicine." He wanted to know why these men have no knowledge of any kind; they are only a step or two from the plumber's kit or the motorman's stool.

"They are not allowed to give serums, according to the act, but they are allowed to treat infectious diseases. They definitely represent a menace to society."

Reduction in Death Rate.

Dr. Starkloff traced the growth of the City Health Department from 1905 to the present, the infant mortality rate was 240 per 1000, to its present condition when the rate is but 70 per 1000. The department now operates one of the most extensive social disease clinics in the world, according to Dr. Starkloff.

Despite its record of public service, Starkloff said, the cost of public health is but 35 cents per capita in St. Louis, a far lower figure than in any other city in the country, including Beloit and East St. Louis. He pleaded for a higher per capita cost for logical expansion of the department, saying: "It ought to be at least a dollar per person."

Unnecessary Deaths.

He declared that 15 to 20 children die monthly of diphtheria in St. Louis "unnecessarily," adding that diphtheria is preventable through the use of serums just as fire is preventable in a fireproof building. He stressed the point that more prevention work in this direction could be effected if the health department had more money.

The next move of the department, he said, will be to strive for a stiffer milk bill for the city, including a provision for inspection of milk on the farms. He indicated he soon would go before the Board of Aldermen for this purpose.

H. E. Wiedemann, State chemist, was another speaker at the meeting, at which Mrs. Adolf Neuville head of the organization, presided.

Ex-St. Louisian Kills Wife and Self
By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, May 6.—While three of his children were at home, a man in a marriage looked on, Mrs. Margaret Fog, 45 years old, was shot and killed by her husband, John Fog, 60, a cemetery gardener, who then took his own life. An impending separation was blamed for the tragedy. The family moved to Chicago from St. Louis about two months ago.

KIDNAPER KILLED IN POLICE FIGHT; 2 VICTIMS FREED

Ransom Demands and Checks Put New York Detectives on Trail—Dead Man's Companion Held.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER PURSUER FAILS

Street Encounter Followed by Release of Theatrical Man and Another Who Disappeared Last Friday.

Leaked Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, May 6.—With one kidnaper dead as a result of a police fight with police, and his companion and a third man arrested, detectives had just renewed their search for Abraham Scharlin, a wealthy theatrical and real estate man, who was lured from his home, 122 West Seventy-second Street, last Friday night, when they were informed Scharlin had been kidnapped by his captors. His family had received demands for ransom, first for $100,000, later for $150,000, and finally for $20,000. Police also were notified of the kidnapping by his kidnappers of James Kramer of the Burlingham Apartments, Bergen Street and Brooklyn Avenue, Brooklyn. He had left home the night Scharlin disappeared, and his wife had not heard from him since. Five checks signed by Taylor, each for $3000, were found by police in the pockets of the kidnapper who was killed. The checks were payable to Charles Kramer, 88 Forsyth Street, and led at night to Kramer's arrest on a charge of having kidnapped both Scharlin and Scharlin, although Kramer asserted he knew nothing about either man.

No Ransom Paid.

Inspector Coughlin said no ransom was paid for the release of the kidnapped men. They will be at police headquarters this afternoon to tell of the kidnapping.

Mrs. Scharlin could not be located this morning. The doorman at the apartment where the Scharlin lived said she left at 5:30 a.m. with a suitcase and he was informed by the night man that she would be away for a week or 10 days.

The dead kidnapper was identified as Joseph Marcus, also known as "Jack" Thompson, wanted for a murder in Montreal in 1923, and his companion, arrested when he was shot, was identified as Mrs. Herman of Sioux City, Iowa, under $5000 reward for a kidnap job. Mrs. Herman, who was held as a material witness, was released.

Detective Sergt. Cordes, with Detective Sergt. Frank Walsh, Joseph Davis and John Morrison, was on Marcus' trail when Scharlin failed to return home. By tracing telephone calls demanding ransom to the Hotel Empire, Broadway and Sixty-third Street, they traced Marcus, who was joined there Wednesday by Herman.

Cordes and Walsh trailed the pair throughout the theatrical district Wednesday night.

When Cordes and Walsh found the pair yesterday afternoon sitting on a bench in Central Park, Walsh failed to return home. By tracing telephone calls demanding ransom to the Hotel Empire, Broadway and Sixty-third Street, they traced Marcus and Herman soon to the park and, with Cordes and Walsh on their trail, walked north. Herman took a revolver from his pocket and thrust it into the front of his trousers' belt.

ADVERTISMENT
STUBBORN, UN-
SIGHTLY PIMPLES
ON FACE AND BACK
Skin now clear and smooth

Debts, Md., July 19.—"Three or four years ago, my face and back broke out with pimples and blackheads. When I picked or pressed them, they would get very sore and raw. I used several kinds of cold cream, but none of them helped a bit. Then I happened to see your advertisement and thought I would try Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. Within a few weeks I had not a pimple or blackhead at all and now my face is nice and smooth. I have also found Resinol Soap very refreshing after coming in out of the sun or wind." (Signed) Miss E. Painter.

If you are troubled with a rough, bumpy skin, ask your druggist to get Resinol Soap and Ointment, and see what an improvement a week's use will make.

RESINOL—Supply of each of these products if you will write Dept. 62, Baltimore, Md.

Cordes called to Motor Cycle Policeman O'Connor, who was passing by.

"I'm going to make an arrest, and I think I'll need help," replied with Cordes and each drew his revolver. Berman grabbed his man out with the butt of his revolver.

"I don't know nothing about any kidnapping," Berman said at the police station. "I can't get more than life, anyway, and I'm going to keep my mouth shut."

O'Connor was today promoted to be a second-grade detective by Police Commissioner Warren.

Miss Rogers Gained
15 Pounds in Six Weeks

Skinny Men and Women Gain 5
Pounds in 30 Days on Money Back

My Dear Friends:

After my attack of Flu I was then, rundown and weak. I had a sallow complexion, my cheeks were sunk in and I was continually troubled with gas on my stomach. I felt stuffy and had lost my appetite. I had read about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and decided to give them a trial. At once, I began to pick up an appetite, my cheeks filled out and my complexion became healthy looking and I gained 15 pounds in six weeks, and am very thankful for what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for me.

Miss Alberta Rogers, 204 W. Cerco St., Decatur, Ill.

To take on weight, grow strong and vigorous, fill out the hollows in cheeks and neck, try McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets for 30 days. 60 Tablets—60 cents at Wolff, Wilson Drug Stores and druggists everywhere. If they don't give you wonderful help in 30 days, your druggist is authorized to give you your money back—you be the judge. But be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine.

$15,000 MORE NIGHT
AND DAY BANK FEES

Increases Total Allowance to Attorneys for Receiver to $80,000.

By an additional award of $15,000 made yesterday by Circuit Judge Hall to attorneys for the State Finance Department as receiver of the Night and Day Bank, their total fee for such services now amounts to $80,000.

The attorney, Thomas E. Francis and the law firm comprising Clarence T. Case, David W. George and George L. Stemler, Meyer Miller formerly was a member of this firm and participated in early fees awarded in the Night and Day Bank receivership, which began Jan. 6, 1922.

The award yesterday covers a period for services rendered from Jan. 1, 1922, to date. According to Attorney Case, the allowances will be considered as payment in full. The receiver said, in a final affidavit of about 5 per cent to debtors and other creditors, making a total of 67 per cent thus paid. Case said that the assets of the bank at the time of the failure amounted to $1,800,000, and that fees granted to the attorneys for the receiver aggregated less than 5 per cent of the value of the estate. He testified that, since January a year ago, the attorneys had been instrumental in collecting approximately $14,000 for the estate, which bank consumed a great amount of their time.

Attorney Edward W. Forstel, Thomas Bond and Seneca C. Taylor testified in support of the claim for service, stating that the amount asked would be reasonable compensation. Judge Hall inquired if there was any one present who opposed the petition. No one arose to object, so the Court entered the decree.

$500,000 CERTIFICATE ISSUE
BY LAND BANK RECEIVER

W. R. Compton Obtains Court Order to Pay Defeated Interest of Kansas City Concern.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6.—Authority to issue $500,000 in receiver's certificates has been granted William R. Compton, receiver for the Kansas City Job Stock Land Bank in Federal Court. The certificates will be of $1000 denomination and payable Oct. 15 at 6 per cent.

The money thus obtained, Compton said, will be used to pay the interest on bonds due May 1. A total of $854,600 worth of the interest coupons were due May 1, and $186,220 was paid prior to the receivership. The receiver's certificates will be prior liens on the bank after outstanding bonds and a home mortgage of $437,500 on the bank.

Affairs of the bank are in such shape, it was pointed out, that a stock assessment is unlikely.

WAR VETERAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

WALTER BRINKOP

FUNERAL OF WALTER BRINKOP IS HELD IN LOS ANGELES

He Had Lived in California City Since 1910—Was Killed in Auto Accident.

Funeral services for Walter Brinkop, 41, son of Christian Brinkop of St. Louis, were held today in Los Angeles, where he had resided since 1910. Brinkop was killed Monday in an automobile accident.

He was head of a real estate company and vice president of a bank in Los Angeles. He had served as a Captain in the U.S. Army and declined nomination for Mayor, and conducted the War Veterans' Bureau of California for several years. He had received personal citation of Gen. Pershing and the Belgian Croix de Guerre as machine gun Captain of the 384th Infantry in the World War. His education was obtained at St. Louis University and St. Vincent College of Los Angeles. He was married and had two children.

WAR FINANCE CORPORATION AND FARM BOARD MERGED

President Names Eugene Meyer Jr. Chief of Former Organization to Better Body.

By the Associated Press WASHINGTON, May 7.—Eugene Meyer Jr. and his colleagues on the War Finance Corporation have been named by President Coolidge as members of the Federal Farm Loan Board in a reorganization of that agency.

Mr. Coolidge named George R. Cooksey and Floyd R. Harrison, who are also members of the War Finance Corporation, to serve on the board with Meyer.

The resignations of Robert A. Cooper and Edward Jones, accepted by the President, and the third vacancy resulted from the recent resignation of Elmer Landes.

The move consolidates the War Finance Corporation and the Farm Board and terminates differences which have existed between the board and certain administration officials.

Boy Robs Church of 400 Cents.

By the Associated Press WHEELING, W. Va., May 6.—A 13-year-old schoolboy who stole 400 pennies from a church contribution box must write Judge Baker every Fourth of July and Christmas, attend Sunday school and make good marks in school for his misdeed. The sentence was imposed yesterday.

Contract Let for Church Building A 53-room building, with quarters for Sunday school departments and other phases of educational activity, is to be built by the Water Tower Baptist Church at Grand boulevard and Florissant avenue.

Killed in Auto Wreck.

By the Associated Press

ARTESIA, N. M., May 6.—William McGinn, secretary of the New Mexico Oil Men's Association, and former Cincinnati newspaper man, was instantly killed, and Sterling Beardsley, New York stock broker, slightly injured last night when an automobile driven by McGinn was wrecked on the Carlsbad-Artesia road.

SHERDEL TO FACE ROBINS IN FIRST GAME IN EAST; CARDINALS RETAIN LEAD

OFARRELL'S Men Have Won Two-Thirds of the Games Played Against Western Clubs, Considered Strongest in League—Veteran Hurler Easly Tames Pittsburg, 4 to 2.

By Herman Wecke

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

BROOKLYN, May 6.—Having won two-thirds of the games played with the Western clubs, supposed to represent the class of the National League, the Cardinals are ready for their first stand of the season against the Eastern teams, starting with the Robins. The opener here, scheduled for today, had to be postponed because of rain. The world champions are still showing the way to all competition, although closely pressed by the Giants.

On the opening stand of the long road campaign, the Cardinals took two out of three from the Pirates. With a little luck the Corsairs might easily have been down in three straight, as in the only bathe lost the champions failed to hold a lead of seven markers.

Sherdel to Face Dodgers:

Bill Sherdel, the little left-hander, will go against the Robins the first game here. Wee Willie beat the men of Robinson five out of six in 1926 and hopes to get another good start. The only decision Bill dropped to the local aggregation a year ago came when Jess Petty beat him 2-1 in one of the closing battles of the campaign. Dazzy Vance has not worked since last Sunday and is due for the Robins, but it is not at all certain that he will be on the firing line.

The final at Pittsburg yesterday added another victory to the strings of Grover Alexander, the 40-year-old right-hander, who returned to active duty after an absence of more than a week, due to illness. Old Pete was as impressive as ever in scoring his 4-2 triumph. But for an error by Easly he would have been scored upon only once and this would have given him a record of having hurled three successive contests in which the opposition scored only one run. His previous wins against the Reds and Pirates had resulted in 2-1 victories. As it was, the old master had to be content with his third straight success.

Big Four Working Again:

Maguire O'Farrell was highly elated over the veteran's showing.

"At least better than he has in previous time this year."

He received this morning, "He has speed, curves and fine control when he needed it."

And there was good reason for the manager of the world champions to be pleased. He now has a "Big Four" in working order again. He has at least four starting pitchers. Flint Rhem is still limping a bit from that cramp he received on Tuesday, but he will be ready for his regular turn. Eddie Haines, winner of five in a row, and Bill Sherdel also are back to go.

Tilden and Hunter Win Matches in Berlin

WIN MATCHES IN BERLIN

NEW YORK, May 6.—Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, American stars, took both the singles matches in straight sets today in the annual lawn tennis tournament, which opened at the Red and White Club.

Tilden defeated Dr. Heinz Landmann, 6-2, 6-1, 7-5, while Tilden disposed of the veteran Otto Froitzheim at 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

McGraw May Get a Chance:

With these four to start, O'Farrell's chief task will be to get capable relief pitching. The work of the second-string twirlers this spring has been nothing to shout about. Most sent in to replace faltering mates have been bated and pounded hard. Therefore it would be a relief if Charlie Littlejohn, the right-hander from Houston, were given a chance to show in a major league case in a relief man is needed. O'Farrell is of the opinion that Littlejohn would be able to stop the enemy and he wants to see what the newcomer can do. Then Bob McGraw, obtained from the Robins, also is awaiting a chance.

But to get back to old Pete, Alexander did look good after his absence. The Pirates found

BEWITHUS NOW E. W. BRADLEY'S MAIN DERBY RELIANCE

BUDDY BAUER IS EN ROUTE TO PIMLICO

Colt Originally Designed for Derby Dependence Will Compete in the Preakness, Monday.

Social to the Post-Dispatch.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6.—While Col. Edward R. Bradley, master of Idle Hour Stock Farm, is sending Buddy Bauer after the Preakness the secret has leaked out that Bewithus is the real "winner" in the way of Kentucky Derby timber at the farm, just outside of Lexington.

Berry Shannon will saddle Buddy Bauer for the Preakness, and Jockey Albert Johnson will have the mount on the Bradley representative. However, immediately after the Preakness, win, loss or draw, Buddy Bauer will be returned to Louisville for engagement in the Kentucky Derby.

The green and white colors of the Colonel will be represented by three in the Derby—Bewithus, Buddy Bauer and Boo. It is reported at the local course by those who got in from Lexington that Bradley thinks very highly of Bewithus' chances in the Derby and that rather than take a chance on the horse being roughed in the Preakness he sent Buddy Bauer to try for honors in the Eastern state. The latter should give a good account of himself, as he is right on edge and ready to go his best.

Shows Great Form in Race.

Bradley uncovered the Black Toney colt, Bewithus, in his first start of the season, when he beat Nor'Easter and Bonaire in the Derby at Lexington last Monday. That race Bewithus ran the best race any 3-year-old has shown in the West this year. If closely dissected, he is about the best race, from a time standpoint, any 3-year-old has run this season.

Bewithus had up 113 pounds. He was away in a tangle and did not get in his stride good until getting over the top of the hill when he came charging down on Nor'Easter to win the race, at one mile and a sixteen, going away. The first mile of the race was run in 1:37 4-5 and the mile and one sixteenth completed in 1:44 4-5. Fast race and good 3-year-old, fine.

Be withus, especially his stable companion, Boo, winner of the Louisiana Derby, who was not among the first three, Be withus may go on to greater things.

Race Better Than Hydromel's.

Be withus' race was even better than the one won by Hydromel at Lexington last week, when the Camden colt took the measure of Rolled Stocking and Buddy Bauer.

Hydromel carried but 105 pounds in that race, with 108 on Rolled Stocking and 105 on Buddy Bauer.

If anyone thinks that a difference of eight pounds with 3 years does not make a difference, let him put it to a test. It figures to be a difference of nearly two lengths to a mile.

Be withus was highly considered by Col. Bradley as a 2-year-old, but he failed on many occasions to run up to expectations. He has evidently found his racing legs as a 3-year-old.

Marion Turpie In Golf Finals

Defending Champion in Women's Southern Tournament Ties Course Record of 83.

By the Associated Press.

LAUREL, Miss., May 6.—Tying the course record of 83, Miss Marion Turpie of New Orleans, youthful defending champion, won her way into the finals of the women's Southern golf tournament today by defeating Mrs. David Gaut of Memphis, 3 and 2. The course record for women was set yesterday by Mrs. Gaut, who made an 86 today.

Mrs. Dalton Raymond of Baton Rouge made the play for the championship an all-Louisiana affair by defeating Mrs. John Armstrong, who had tied up a birdie 4 the missed being an eagle by less than 2 inches on the 330-yard eighteenth hole, gave Mrs. Raymond the victory.

Valorous, Leading Whitney 3-Year-Old, Is Training for Preakness and Derby

Pennant Colt Ran First in Champagne Stakes, Hanging Up Fastest Time in Event's History.

NO. 24—VALOROUS.

By CLEMENT GLAUB.

VALOROUS is the best of the Whitney 3-year-olds now in training and is being pointed for both the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, at Belmont Park.

Valorous was not hurried as a 2-year-old and received his preliminary racing at Whitney's private Brookdale farm. Under the watchful eye of Trainer Jimmy Rowe Sr. the colt was carefully prepared and was not sent to the track until the latter part of June.

Valorous' race in the Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes showed clearly that he could go a distance. Valorous beat Candy Queen, which trimmed him in the Belmont Futurity. In the Jockey Club Stakes, The way the son of Pennant beat Candy Queen served to demonstrate that he was a victim of bad racing luck in the Futurity. He got off

LIANCE

Against Series Opener

With L. Waner on second as a result of a double. While Old Pete was fooling the boys in this style the world champions were making the best of their opportunities against Vic bridge, the Indiana schoolmaster. For the first three rounds, bridge was master. However, in the fourth a pass to French and a double to the right tied the score. And in the sixth a triple, Holm singles by Bottomley and Hill and an error by Wright added two more. Alex opened the seventh with a tremeous double and me around when Holm singled. That was the extent of the 'Gulls' offense, but it was enough for Alexander. All told, the champions made only eight hits, but six of these were bunched in the three innings in which the 'Gulls' scored. Which is mighty effective pitching.

Billy Southworth reports that his injured knee is on the mend and that he is about ready to go. But the pace Wattle Holm has been keeping since playing regularly looks as though Southworth could have plenty of rest by Aug. 1.

Manager O'Farrell is still bothered by his sore whip and he took time to give Snyder a chance. Snyder failed to hit safely but he fought a fine game.

The best catch was turned by Dick Hafey at the expense of Dick Cuyler in the third. Cuyler dashed a line to left center. It took a few steps but Hafey dashed over and caught the ball. Hafey stretched out to the limit, going full tilt, was not aware the ball had been caught until he steamed into third base.

Dave Ostrov (153), Chicago, knocked out Harry Ritter (154), St. Louis, in first round.

Tom Pivac (172), St. Louis, knocked out Lou Rollenger (171), Waterloo, Ia., in third round.

Gene Riley (137), St. Louis, defeated Roy Mitchell (137), O'Fallon, eight rounds.

Eddie O'Neill (117), St. Louis, and Harry Durso (112 1/2), St. Louis, fought six rounds to a draw.

Wop Stomun (134), Kennett, Mo., won a technical knockout over Frankie Sims (134), St. Louis, in second round.

Manager O'Farrell is still bothered by his sore whip and he took time to give Snyder a chance. Snyder failed to hit safely but he fought a fine game.

The best catch was turned by Dick Hafey at the expense of Dick Cuyler in the third. Cuyler dashed a line to left center. It took a few steps but Hafey dashed over and caught the ball. Hafey stretched out to the limit, going full tilt, was not aware the ball had been caught until he steamed into third base.

By Jack Alexander.

Harry Ritter, "St. Louis' fighting Bishop," heard bells for some time before his bout at the Coliseum last night with Dave Ostrov of Chicago. In less than one minute of fighting Ostrov executed one of the cleanest knockouts on record.

There was nothing crude about it. The scrap started like a great exhibition, both men boxing prettily and breaking clean. Ritter had an apparent advantage, driving Ostrov back into his corner and when Ritter shot out a long left hook Ostrov ducked, stepped aside it and brought his right across sharply to the point of Harry's chin. The referee had time to count 10 several times before Harry got up.

The other scheduled 10-round match was another easy one for Tom Pivac and was roundly hooted by the customary crowd of about 10,000. Lou Rollenger had a hard time with Eddie O'Neill, who had a left jab employing his right only to wipe his upper lip. Rollenger finally knocked out Rollenger in the third round.

Durso and O'Neill Shine.

Gene Riley, in the eight-round, had to polish off Roy Mitchell of O'Fallon, Ill., although he had the lead three or four rounds to do it. Mitchell was much the better in the first two rounds but poor condition had him tired by the fourth round and in the last few rounds he could barely stand up on horse in history, if memory serves, has carried off the "double crown"—S. Barton.

Only One Double Winner.

The difference in the odds is accounted for by the Derby being five days later than the Preakness. Owners will refrain from entering the Derby until they note the showing of the entries in the Preakness.

However, that means little.

What with the long rail journey and the short period of five days between the two big events, only two horses could barely stand up on horse in history, if memory serves, has carried off the "double crown"—S. Barton.

Early the best attraction of the evening was the six-round bout between Eddie O'Neill and Harry Durso. We couldn't see it and fight as they did not long ago for amateur prizes. O'Neill and Durso took the fight working up to a great climax in the fourth round.

Durso, who had led most of the day, threw across a number of hard punches to O'Neill's face in the Derby. On the other hand, at least one horse has shown poorly in the Preakness, only to come out in time to cap the rich prize at Churchill Downs—Zev.

As a matter of fact, history shows that both events are difficult to pick. Winter favorites seldom come through. Big fields, the early season of the year, the length of the race, and the lack of 3-year-old form of many of the contenders combine to make handicapping tough, even forclairvoyants.

Anyone who has more than a sentimental wager on such a race ought to buy himself a ticket to a sanitarium.

New Commission Ruling.

Frankie Sims found himself facing Wop Stomun, a tough one who is in boxing what Dick Davis was in wrestling. Frankie was unable to do anything in the first round and lost by a technical knockout in the second. Stomun's voice was loudly boozed.

The Boxing Commission announced last night from the ring that hereafter a boxer committing a foul will be disqualified and forfeit his purse, whether the foul causes damage or not. If the act is flagrant, the commission will consider suspension, it was said. Too many fouls on the last fight card was said to be the reason for theastic action.

Reversing Himself.

TY COBB today is in the .400 division of hitters, after three weeks' play.

That's reversing Cobb's habit of other days when his .400 hitting was all done after June first.

Season after season Cobb got away to a bad start, due partly to his repugnance to spring training. But always he finished with a bang.

Today, at the age of 41 or so,

Cobb is doing at the start of the campaign what once he was unable to do at the finish. It is possible that he will reverse his former procedure by slowing up at the finish.

The law of averages is inexorable. In the past it shows that Cobb in his best day was a .400 hitter only on rare occasions. If Cobb starts now to hit far above his speed it is inevitable that he'll slump at the close.

KIRKWOOD NINE TO

Wide's Goal in

Runners to Offer Competition to Swedish Star.

By the Associated Press
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 6.—Harvard's three best distance runners will provide competition for Edwin Wide when he tries to shatter all known records for the two-mile run in the Harvard stadium tomorrow. They are Captain E. C. Hagerty, intercollegiate one-mile champion, and Jim Reid and Leslie Flakham, who finished first and second in the indoor intercollegiates in New York last winter.

The future event of first annual Harvard interclass meet, an innovation sponsored by William J. Bingham, Harvard director of athletics, is scheduled for 5 o'clock.

Wide will try to better his own outdoor record of 9 minutes 12.5 seconds, as well as the indoor mark of 8 minutes 55 1/2 seconds, established by Paavo Nurmi of Finland at New York in 1925.

SPALDING Golf Shoes are not just street shoes that decided to take up golf. They are "golf" from the very start—created expressly for the game with all the skill of Spalding's 37 years of making athletic shoes.

So Spalding Golf Shoes are true athletic shoes.
They bring you foot comfort that has exceeded the fussy requirements of three generations of football, baseball and track men. They are mighty good looking. They will outwear two pairs of ordinary shoes. And most models are but $10.

BURROUGHS DEFEATS
MCBRIE HIGH IN
PREP GAME, 13 TO 4
John Burroughs won a Preparatory League baseball game yesterday over McBride High in Forest
Park, 13 to 4.

Jantzen pitched tight ball for the winners, allowing seven hits, and Bascoun, Reinhart and Robinson also starred. Several McBride pitchers were unable to stop the Burroughs attack.

Rating as one of the fastest racing greyhounds ever shipped out of England, Dirk, an awkward black racer, seems to be improving with every start at the Madison Kennel Club. Tonight he is in the quarter-mile race against Wasteful Girl, Jimmie Jamestown,
Marlow Punch, Desperate
Chance, Robin and others. His good race the other night with Professor is enough to make him the logical choice in this contest.

When first schooled on the track,
Dirk had plenty of speed but coursed from one side of the track to the other as if pursuing a live rabbit. This caused him to be beaten by slower greyhounds which hugged the rail. Ernest Rhine, his trainer, had paid a fancy price for Dirk and didn't want to be the loser without a struggle, so he set about teaching the dog to run in a straight line.

Coaching Improves Dirk.

Every morning for a week,
Rhine had his trainer walk Dirk around the track next the inside rail. This satisfied him. The usual sprints in an open field seems to have solved the problem. In his last start, Dirk broke fast and stayed with Professor nearly all the way, being beaten only a short distance in fast time. There are no Professors in the race with him tonight.

Rhine also has Upright in the eighth race with a fine chance to surprise the judges. The big fawn racer was beaten a nose by Reckless Buck in his last start and once he gets to running in top form is good for the last four desirable races. Moving Trigger looks as the most dangerous and will be the winner in the event upstart decides not to try his best. Orange Bitter has run some fast quarters and might stick it out to be third.

Chanticleer is the "mule" in the first race. The custom is to use one unschooled runner in a race with pups and the George Donovan veteran ought to outsmart the youngsters in as much as he is placed in the number one box.
Flying Start has been in the money every start and can beat Chanticleer if he falters.

DAMS ABOVE, SPILLWAYS BELOW, PROPOSED AS SUBSTITUTE FOR LEVEES

Annual Billion Dollar Loss
Can Be Turned Into an Asset,
New Orleans Expert Declares

Walter Parker of National Flood Prevention Commission Asserts Dikes Have Been Proved Failures.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-23 Wyatt Building. WASHINGTON, May 6.—A plea for "intelligent, constructive thought to our nationwide flood problem" was made by Walter Parker, executive vice president of the National Flood Prevention and River Regulation Commission of New Orleans, in a speech before the national resources production group of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States convention here.

Parker urged an extensive system of controlled spillways on lower reaches of the river, to replace levees with a system of temporary impounding basins in bottom lands to be kept empty for such use as the Mississippi needs relief.

He stressed the fact that the annual loss to the nation through soil erosion. The Mississippi River alone every year carries down to the sea as waste about a cubic mile of soil, the soil washings from 41 per cent of the country, equivalent to three inches from approximately 12,600,000 acres of land. Nor does it include the loss of low-cost transportation by water, the loss of cheap power, the loss of life-giving irrigation.

At the address follows:

There are two pictures: one—Broked levees, flooded and drowned cattle, with refugees, cows, pigs, wild animals and remnants of farm equipment, huddled and piled in on remaining levees awaiting subsidence of the flood, inundating over wide areas. Rushing turbulent currents. Abandoned railroads. Relief crews in padding about. Levee build and levee engineers, helplessly for the waters to recede, near the levee lines so that self-same levees or some other lines can give way during the next flood.

Which is the picture Kentucky, Arkansas, Mississippi other states have repeatedly had since the first of the Plan of Control.

Two—Source streams controlled. Mountain canyons dammed. Water used when needed for irrigation and navigation. Farms terraced so that more soil will soak into the ground, not wash away. Regulating waters feeding the streams in the season. Levees built to hold back the water in the streams in spring. More water in the streams in the summer and fall, in place of chaos. A natural asset in place of a national liability. We spend a hundred millions on the Muscle Shoals power plant. And then Congress spends half a generation in argument over why we built it, who is to get the benefit, who is to manage it and similar questions which should have been settled before one dollar was spent.

The control of the Colorado, a matter of vital economic importance, serves a non-technical function as a common political football. Political levee boards with taxing powers along the Mississippi determine the fortunes of many Senators, Congressmen and other office holders.

Too Much Politics.

We spend a hundred millions on the Muscle Shoals power plant. And then Congress spends half a generation in argument over why we built it, who is to get the benefit, who is to manage it and similar questions which should have been settled before one dollar was spent.

Declares Levees Useless.

"There are two sides to this flood control question, just as there are two sides to any paper.

Picture No. 2 is what we will when we shall have given intelligent, constructive and comprehensive thought to our nationwide flood problem—fertile lowlands safe from floods, densely populated and prosperous. Up to now, protected from soil erosion, by conservation surplus water. The whole served by power and low cost transportation, generating an ever-increasing revenue.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in the final platform, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight damages of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory piracy or predatory poverty.

Special Session for Flood Relief.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We, the American citizens, have as our right and duty not to ask but to demand of the President and Congress of these United States to get busy at once for the relief of the flood sufferers. To have a special session, to make an adequate appropriation.

There is positively no room for argument. There is no time to figure costs or so-called foolish bill billy economy; we want action. The present administration has time and money for figuring out a future canal in Nicaragua—time in plenty for that—get busy at home.

To the press in general: Your help is needed. Mimes no words give the subject notoriety and plenty of it and then some more, and keep it up. Smoke 'em up and smoke 'em out. Let us all make an issue of this and push. W. W.

Debt and Drugists.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

With reference to the wretched individual debt question, I should like someone of them who so firmly believe it to be for the good of mankind that these debts should not be canceled all around, to give me what he would doubtless call his "reaction" to the necessity and greatness of the task.

Early in this week the St. Louis Wholesale Drug Co. inserted advertisements in the newspapers to the effect that they placed their "entire resources" at the disposal of those retail drugists who had lost all, or suffered serious losses, in the flooded districts. Is not a fact that the wholesalers have made this generous gesture which is because the Southwest contains a great many of their customers and to lose this trade would entail serious losses to themselves? They are vitally interested in putting the retailer on his feet again as quickly as possible at whatever cost to themselves.

For the flood, read the war: for the wholesale drugist, read the United States of America; for the half-ruined retail drugist, read Europe. Will someone please explain to me why it is expedient for America to regard her customers as though they were different in any way than the wholesale drugists treat them? Is it good business so to do? And if so, why are the drug wholesalers in this part of the country fools?

Needs of City Institutions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

OUR Comptroller, Mr. Nolte, states that the city's deficit is more than $1,000,000, while the credit balance for the three institutions—Zoo, Library and Art Museum—is more than $800,000, more money than they need, and that the operating expenses and the cost of new public work have increased steadily; that needed improvements in hospitals and such institutions have been passed over.

The boards of directors of two of the above institutions do not wish to part with $800,000. Knowing our hospitals need it badly, their so-called civic pride tells them to hold fast, bring it to court and get more, if possible.

We are now living in the year 1927 and under conditions that did not exist in 1907 when this tax law was passed. Mr. Nolte, the Mayor, Mr. Dolan and the Board of Aldermen should be congratulated by the taxpayers for their action in this matter.

The task in my mind is to do what is needed to have directors for these institutions—men who have no financial investment except their so-called civic pride? Could you, Mr. Taxpayer, expect any private corporation to be directed and its funds administered economically by men not financially interested? Would you, Mr. Director, run your private business like this?

Eight hundred thousand dollars of the people's money hoarded by these institutions with human lives at stake in our hospitals needing money! What a change!

A TAXPAYER.

Another Dangerous Crossing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WOULD like to call attention to the Elliot and Cass Avenue crossing. Motorists cross over there every week. The baseball season may over will make traffic still worse, and I expect there will be more accidents, some fatal.

If all these accidents were properly reported, a stop and go signal would be placed at this dangerous crossing.

A CITIZEN.

"New Olive Street."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

LIVE street from Channing avenue to Twelfth boulevard, where it is being widened, certainly looks like a mess. Months have passed since the buildings started to come down or be changed to conform to the new building line, and still more months than stand as grim as ever, and look as if they were never coming down. At this rate it will probably be about 1950 before we can expect to have our long-looked-for place.

TENDER HEARTED.

A SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS FOR FLOOD RELIEF AND REPAIR.

President Coolidge has rejected the suggestion that he call an extra session of Congress to take measures for the control of floods in the Mississippi Valley. He says there will be plenty of time for Congress to act in the regular session, beginning in December. He expects the report of the army engineers of the Mississippi River Commission, who have been ordered to make a thorough survey, to be ready by October.

What about flood relief and the rehabilitation of the people who have been driven out of flooded districts, and whose crops have been destroyed and homes either destroyed or seriously damaged? The number of the flood victims runs into the hundreds of thousands, who have to be fed, clothed and sheltered for months to come. They then have to be aided in rebuilding and repairing their homes and obtaining farm equipment and reviving farms, without prospect of much return for the year. This immediate relief and rehabilitation work is dependent wholly upon voluntary contributions.

Mr. Coolidge has issued an appeal to the people to contribute for relief work. The people are responding generously, but will their responses equal the need? It is a question in a matter in which there ought to be no question. The relief should be supplied.

The President ought to appeal to the whole nation through its representatives in Congress. He ought to call upon Congress to place the ample resources of the nation at the command of the Red Cross and the Government agencies that are doing the work of relief and must do the work of rehabilitation. It is agreed that the flood disaster and flood control are the concerns of the whole American people. They are the concerns of the nation. The task is so stupendous that it cannot be placed upon communities and states and individual support. It must be undertaken by the United States.

Thus, while a fury had something to say about the conviction of the men at the first trial, Judge Thayer had autocratic authority over subsequent proceedings except to the limited extent to which the Supreme Court was empowered to review his actions. In these subsequent proceedings, Judge Thayer's demeanor was not that of a man possessing the aloofness and calm expected in a Judge, but rather the manner of a man who is prejudiced and partial.

The sheaf of documents as to the attitude of Judge Thayer were supplied by disinterested persons. In some ways, the statements they make are uglier than any that have yet appeared in this case, because they are impeachments on the honor of a Judge. For the law to err is one thing; this is quite another. After the Governor has considered the Sacco-Vanzetti case, we trust the case of Judge Thayer will be next on the docket.

JUDGE THAYER NEXT.

As part of the appeal to Gov. Fuller for a reconsideration of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, the defense has filed five affidavits and one unsigned statement of sensational content. It is charged that the Judge not only repeatedly discussed the case with persons outside the courtroom while it was being tried, but that he spoke of the defendants and their attorney in such terms as would indicate a settled animosity, and made threats that "he would get them (Sacco and Vanzetti) good and proper."

Judge Thayer certainly was in position to "get" Sacco and Vanzetti. He presided at the trial and there was constantly called upon to make important rulings as to the admission of evidence and the like. When the evidence was in, it was his duty to give instructions to the jury, and this duty gave him leeway to express any bias he might have in a cunning and insidious way.

After the trial was over, the only way for the defense to get a new trial was through the same Judge Thayer who presided at the first one. The rules of law in Massachusetts, moreover, permitted Judge Thayer to be sole judge over any new facts that might be presented.

Some very important new evidence was discovered after the trial, and it was made the basis of two separate motions for a new trial. Judge Thayer heard and denied both these motions. In each case, his denial was appealed to the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, which was unable to inquire farther into Judge Thayer's decision than to say whether or not he had complied with certain technical formalities.

The President ought to appeal to the whole nation through its representatives in Congress. He ought to call upon Congress to place the ample resources of the nation at the command of the Red Cross and the Government agencies that are doing the work of relief and must do the work of rehabilitation. It is agreed that the flood disaster and flood control are the concerns of the whole American people. They are the concerns of the nation. The task is so stupendous that it cannot be placed upon communities and states and individual support. It must be undertaken by the United States.

Thus, while a fury had something to say about the conviction of the men at the first trial, Judge Thayer had autocratic authority over subsequent proceedings except to the limited extent to which the Supreme Court was empowered to review his actions. In these subsequent proceedings, Judge Thayer's demeanor was not that of a man possessing the aloofness and calm expected in a Judge, but rather the manner of a man who is prejudiced and partial.

For the law to err is one thing; this is quite another. After the Governor has considered the Sacco-Vanzetti case, we trust the case of Judge Thayer will be next on the docket.

THE GREAT AMERICAN NUISANCE.

At the instance of a meddlesome woman probation officer, Ross Parago of New York, 15 years old, was taken from her father because he would not send her to Sunday school and detained for a month at the Children's Society. Only after a series of investigations and court hearings, in which the Children's Society and other organizations fought him was Frank Parago allowed to take his own daughter home. A Judge found that the girl was loved, cared for and given adequate schooling, and upheld the father's contention that he had a right to instruct a daughter in his "own kind of religion."

This is typical of the activities of the professional reformers and busybodies who have nothing else to do. The country is ridden with them. We think of them usually as dominating the lives of small towns and of people who live in the backwoods, but they exist also in New York, which is supposedly civilized and cosmopolitan. They have caused Frank Parago weeks of anxiety, humiliation and disruption of his own household, and the only recourse Frank Parago has is to slam the door on them when, as they conveniently will do, they come around asking him to contribute to their support.

THE MAN WHO BEAT THE REPORTERS.

The trained reporter, mostly unwept, unboned and unsung by reason of his anonymity, does his day's work ordinarily without the challenge of comparison. Occasionally, though, his mettle is tested by a cause celebre like the Gray-Snyder trial that brings excellencies of many a genre into the arena of swift narration. And, as in this present instance, the trained reporter puts it all over the impressionists. Still, there was an event-de luxe some 30 years ago at which a grave, sardonic legate entered the press box and walked away with the glory.

At Carson City on that far-away afternoon when Fitzsimmons toppled Corbett it was that virtuous words. John J. Ingalls, who presented the newspaper public the next day with the one vivid description of the solar plexus blow.

What does this one exception to the rule prove? Only this, perhaps: Had Ingalls gone into newspapering instead of the law and politics his fame today might be something bigger and finer than that of the dimly remembered Senator from Kansas.

WHAT ST. LOUIS NEEDS.

Rome had Maeccenas. Whenever Virgil or Horace were short of ready cash and needed money to carry on, they would call at Maeccenas' house on the Esquiline and get it. Had Lorenzo the Magnificent? This Medici always had his purse open to impoverished art. What St. Louis needs is a Maeccenas or a Lorenzo.

The city has just been canvassed for funds for the Symphony Orchestra under the expert leadership of former Mayor Kiel, but this canvass leaves the Symphony Society still $25,000 short of the money needed to support the orchestra. Much of the money subscribed has come from persons in moderate circumstances, who are also being asked to contribute to flood relief.

It has been the privilege of the wealthy from time immemorial to foster the arts. The names of some, like Maeccenas and Lorenzo, have lived chiefly because they did so. If there had been no such patrons of the arts, the arts would be non est. Poor people cannot afford art.

The tradition of Maeccenas and Lorenzo has been followed in this country by the Widener, the Morgans, the Carnegies and others. They recognized the value of art and their responsibility toward it. In almost every city which has a symphony orchestra there is one archangel or a choir of lesser angels who make it possible for the orchestra to exist.

St. Louis has a strong love of music, and there will always be hundreds of modestly circumstanced people here who will make small contributions. But the big burden must be carried on by the wealthy, and until we discover a Maeccenas or a Lorenzo, our orchestra will suffer all the demoralization of financial uncertainty.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

ST. LOUIS AND AL SMITH.

CARTER FIELD, in New York Herald-Tribune.

FOR various reasons the Republican organization in St. Louis would probably be friendly to Al Smith unless, of course, there should be a great deal of soreness over the failure of Jim Reed to get the nomination. With the assumption that Reed is enthusiastic for Smith, however, it is probable that he would carry the City of St. Louis against Coolidge, and St. Louis is the Republican stronghold of the State.

John G. Neihardt
Donn Byrne's New Book

BROTHER SAUL By Donn Byrne, (Century Co.)

An author who has done an especially good piece of work of a very special sort early in his career and may yet great acclaim, therefore, is likely to find himself seriously handicapped when, in the course of his development, he applies his powers to a radically different task from that with which his name has been identified. However important the new and different work may be, it is almost certain to suffer in the general esteem by comparison with his former achievement. The new work is sure to be approached by most readers with a very definite mental pattern as a gauge of excellence; and since the pattern can not fit the new achievement, disappointment is sure to be felt.

The mental pattern with which "Brother Saul" will be approached by most readers is naturally that of "Messer Marco Polo"; for though Donn Byrne has written other magical books, it is undoubtedly that one upon which the major portion of his fame rests. The Marco Polo book is a marvelous example of pure literary magic. It is short and exquisitely lyrical throughout. It signs itself into the reader's consciousness.

"Brother Saul" is far from short, and while the distinctive lyrical note of Donn Byrne makes many a passage magical, the character of the book differs as greatly from that of "Messer Marco Polo" as the brooding early summer, conscious of the sorrows and the doubts that come with fruiting, differs from the ecstatic flowering of the spring.

"Marco Polo" was mystical moonshine and blossoming boughs. There is fruit in "Brother Saul," for those who care for fruit in its season.

In high seriousness and without a touch of "modern" cleverness, Donn Byrne has undertaken to recreate in detail the life of the Apostle Paul and the world in which he moved. The task demanded careful scholarship, and Donn Byrne evidently has it. Because of his concern with the early days of Christianity, the book has been compared with "Bible History," but such a comparison is utterly misleading. Donn Byrne's intent here is not to be described as romantic, and he has been at no

ESTATE OF CHARLES ROEDER APPRAISED AT $466,341

Former Real Estate Dealer Left Bulk of Property in Trust for His Family.

An inventory of the estate of Charles Roeder, a real estate dealer, who died Feb. 6, filed yesterday, shows property valued at $466,341. Of this, $446,941 is the appraised value of personal property, and the remainder real estate.

He left the bulk of his estate in trust of his widow, Mrs. Sallie H. Roeder, 3258 Copelin avenue, and the St. Louis Union Trust Co., with the St. Louis Union Trust Co., with directions that she is to receive the income from one-half of the trust fund, while the income from the remaining portion is to be divided among their four daughters and one son—Miss Edna Roeder, Mrs. Laura Viles, Mrs. Corinne Sherman, Mrs. Dorothy Phillips and Harold Roeder.

The biggest item of personal property in Roeder's estate consists of bonds valued at $316,100. He also owned notes totaling $122,404 and three parcels of real estate.

BOOKISH SCHOLARSHIP SCORCHED Chicago U. Is Trying to Make Education an Adventure.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 6.—A system of instruction designed to promote creative scholarship and to eliminate bookishness, is being tried out at the University of Chicago. Max Mason, president, said yesterday.

The old system of giving the students a great deal of information has given way, he explained. "We were young, red-blooded sportsmen and women who will become excited over the problems of science. The students will thus get into creative scholarship and not become bookish."

Malitzan's Dream Becomes Reality.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 6.—Forty years ago a lad in a school in Germany memorized Longfellow's "Hiawatha" and longed for the time when he might see Minnehaha Falls, of which the poem sang. That childhood dream became a reality when Baron Ago von Maltzan, German Ambassador to the United States, said "Beside the Falls of Minnehaha," and listened to its "Laughing Water" yesterday. The Ambassador is on a four-day visit to Minnesota.

Members of 14 civic and business clubs visited local social agencies during the week, which had been designated Community Visiting Week.

The latest visits were made yesterday when members of the Club Club met at the International Institute, 2221 Washington boulevard, to learn what the institute is doing for foreign born persons of the city. The Downtown Optimists inspected the new Y. M. C. A. at the Kiwanis visited Barnes Hospital, and representatives of the Elks Club of Webster Groves called at the Protestant Orphans' Home. Visiting Week was sponsored by the St. Louis Community Council and the Gavel Club.

QUESTION. When I am dead, will you be true? Will love with you abide? Or will you do what I would? If it were you that died?

ANSWER. Once upon a time there was a European prince who was not reported engaged to a Princess of Wales.

DISTANCE lends protection to American and property.

Formerly, it was feared that America would annex Canada, but testimony before Royal Canadian customs commission indicates the present danger, if any, is from the United States.

In addition there will be Maypole girls, flower girls, fireflies, bees, sunbeams, daisies, morning glories and a toy band from the primary department.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made Wednesday of the engagement of Miss Flavia Von Brecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Von Brecht of Forest Ridge, and Thomas Colfer, son of Mrs. Mary Brown of Clara avenue. The wedding will take place in the early autumn.

Walter Haeseler, in honor of his sister, Miss Helen Campbell of Hollywood, Cal., who is his guest. The guests were seated at small tables, adorned with yellow roses and bridal wreath. Palms were used as a background.

Mrs. John H. Kinney of Ferguson and her daughter, Mrs. John L. Pierson Jr., gave a bridge tea on Friday for four days before her departure. Mrs. Hal Gaylord of Kansas City.

Mrs. Henry Clarkson Scott of 31 Westmoreland place, has returned home from Hot Springs, Va., where she has been for several weeks.

Mrs. Harrison Hoblitzelle has as her guest Mrs. W. W. Cheney of Manlius, N. Y., who arrived Friday. She will be entertained informally by a number of parties and will remain two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Hoblitzelle are occupying the home of Mr. Hoblitzelle's mother, Mrs. George K. Hoblitzelle, 6459 Ellenswood avenue, during her absence in Europe.

Mrs. Clarke Byron Scott of Chicago, who has been the guest of her nieces, Miss May Reynolds Scott, daughter of Raymond G. Scott of the Senate Apartments, accompanied by Miss Scott, departed last evening for a visit with relatives in Cleveland, O. Miss Scott will go to Louisville, Ky., to attend the Kentucky Derby and will then go to Philadelphia to be present at a reunion of the Ogontz School of which she is a graduate.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Post of 228 North Newstead avenue are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a son, yesterday. Mrs. Post was Miss Berenice Lightner.

Mrs. Leo De Smet Carton of 5557 Waterman avenue and her son, Langdon Carton, will spend the summer at the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, Colo. They spent the winter in the West, and will then return from a two-weeks' trip to Lawrenceville School, in Lawrenceville, N. J., which Langdon attended.

Miss Ruth Alice Wilson, and her mother, Mrs. Andrew Eugene Wilson, of 5707 McPherson avenue, will be hostesses at a luncheon bridge to be given at the Hotel Coronado tomorrow. The guests will be Miss Wilson's classmates from the Junior class at Mary Institute and out of town friends. The guests will include the Board of Mary's Diary, a weekly publication by the students.

Members of the Meemah Camps at Fish Creek, Wis., will hold their annual reunion in the small ballroom of Hotel Chase tomorrow evening. An interesting program of stunts and surprises will lend informality to the occasion. Mrs. Alice Orr Clark and Mrs. Fanny W. Mabley, owners and directors of the camps, will preside, and the guests will include a number of the older camp girls and their husbands.

Mrs. Charleston Messick of 4537 Maryland avenue has returned from a visit in Louisville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Smith of 6633 Washington boulevard, University City, left today for New York and will sail Tuesday on the Conte Rosso for Naples, Italy, to attend the Gatesworth Hotel by Mrs.

Five Days.

The drive of the St. Louis Presbyterian for its ministers' pension fund has produced thus far $155,000 of the full $187,000 quota. Woodson K. Woo, chairman of the Laymen's Committee in charge of the campaign announced last night. Special effort will be made during the next five days to raise the additional $32,000.

The Second Presbyterian Church led all other churches in subscription to the fund, having raised $41,625. The Webster Groves church was next, with $28,450 and the West Presbyterian Church third, with $15,410. It was announced that the largest individual contributions—two gifts of $10,000 each—had come from persons who did not wish their names made public.

The Rev. John W. MacIvor, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, and W. K. Ballantyne, Cincinnati layman, were speakers last night at a meeting of campion workers at the Stutter.

BOOKISH SCHOLARSHIP SCORCHED Chicago U. Is Trying to Make Education an Adventure.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 6.—A system of instruction designed to promote creative scholarship and to eliminate bookishness, is being tried out at the University of Chicago. Max Mason, president, said yesterday.

The old system of giving the students a great deal of information has given way, he explained. "We were young, red-blooded sportsmen and women who will become excited over the problems of science. The students will thus get into creative scholarship and not become bookish."

Malitzan's Dream Becomes Reality.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 6.—Forty years ago a lad in a school in Germany memorized Longfellow's "Hiawatha" and longed for the time when he might see Minnehaha Falls, of which the poem sang. That childhood dream became a reality when Baron Ago von Maltzan, German Ambassador to the United States, said "Beside the Falls of Minnehaha," and listened to its "Laughing Water" yesterday. The Ambassador is on a four-day visit to Minnesota.

Mrs. Hugo B. Stifel of 1722 Pennsylvania avenue, with her son, Ernst, and her daughter, Elva, will sail June 6 on the S. S. Resolute for a three months' tour of Europe. Miss Stifel attends Washington University and is a member of the Phi Mu Sorority.

Guy Study will lecture at the City Art Museum Saturday afternoon, at 3:15 o'clock, on "Tudor Architecture." This subject will not only appeal to those interested in architecture, but will attract those who travel as well since many of the lantern slides which illustrate the talk are of famous palaces and buildings in England. Mr. Study has made extensive study of the English styles in architecture and his lecture will be devoted to one of the most noteworthy periods. It will be given in Gallery 16 and is free to the public.

The Guild is at present under legal fire from the Shuberts, who have not as yet accepted the closed shop and who brought suit against the Guild last week for "secondary boycott." The Guild obtained a closed shop from most of the producers more than a year ago.

A decision is pending on a motion for injunction to restrain the Guild from preventing its members from selling plays to the Shuberts.

Bringing up Children

MY sisters, my sister-in-law and myself all have children, and for years we have all given our children Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. We have recommended it hundreds of times and think it just wonderful, not only to bring up children but for ourselves. At the slightest sign of stomach trouble, colds, constipation and when out of sorts, a dose or two is all they need. Truly, it is a family medicine and the stitch in time that saves nine. (Name and address sent on request)

Constipation, Colds, Coughs, Fevers and Other Perils of Childhood

One dose and mother's anxiety is lifted. The sick stomach craves the taste of Syrup Pepsin. From infancy to old age the result is certain. Droopy, listless, feverish children respond as if to magic. Headache, stomachache, biliousness, coated tongue, constipation—these are the daily perils for which a host of mothers say Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the safe guard. Sold and recommended by all druggists.

RED CROSS WOMEN,
ACTIVE IN WAR,
AID FLOOD RELIEF

Take Charge of Booths in Stores, Hotels and Union
Station to Receive Unsolicited Contributions.

Contributions of the St. Louis
Police Department to the Red Cross, for the relief of Mississippi River flood sufferers, amount to $1319.25, according to a list by districts furnished to the Red Cross today. The largest amounts reported were $191.50 from the Secret Service Bureau, $151 from Central District and $105 from Eighth (Laclede) District.

Employees of the St. Louis Postoffice, whose total was reported on a later list, contributed $1855.70.
The roster of St. Louis collections, including today's latest list, reached $246,882.55. This includes some smaller gifts from people outside St. Louis, which were sent here and were reported with the local gifts as a matter of convenience.
One of these was $500 from the Cedington County Red Cross branch of Watertown, S. D. Citizens of the town of Belle, Marion County, Mo., sent their joint contribution of $114.75 here, and it is listed with the local gifts.

List of Donors Too Small.

An estimate of Red Cross officials, taking account of the number represented in employees' lists and other joint gifts, is that the number of St. Louis contributors is not more than 30,000. In view of the universal character of the appeal, the Red Cross officials feel that the response should be more general.

Booths in department stores, hotels and at Union Station, beginning tomorrow, will receive contributions. No solicitation will be made, but the way to the booths will be shown by Red Cross flags, and the women in charge will be in Red Cross uniforms.

Wartime Personnel Active.

The women engaged in this work will be those who were active in wartime Red Cross work. Mrs.
Frank V. Hammer, vice chairman of the St. Louis Chapter, will be in charge.

Those in charge of various booths will be:

Schroeder & Barber, Mrs. George Warren Brown, Mrs.
H. F. D'Onch and Mrs. L. H.
Conn; Famous-Barr, Mrs. Marcus
A. Hirsch; Sixx, Baer & Fuller, rep-turing Co., $213.85; John J. Lichten, $100; Charles A. Lemp, $100.

Benefit Performances.

A midnight show will be given tomorrow night at Loew's State Theater as a benefit for the flood sufferers. Musicians, actors, stage hands and electricians will give their services, and all proceeds will go to the Red Cross Fund. Herbert Berger and his Coronado Hotel Orchestra, the Missouri Pacific Diamond Jubilee Quartet, the Pipe-men's Trio, Perry Mansfield
Dancers and a number of other acts will be included in the benefit, which will be started at 11:30 p.
m. Admission will be $1.

A number of neighborhood theaters will have benefit matinées tomorrow, and others are announcing night shows.

FUNERAL OF H. K. BUNCH
TO TAKE PLACE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Harrison
King Bunch, attorney and descendant of early St. Louis and New Orleans French settlers who died at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium last Tuesday, will be held at 10
a. m. tomorrow from an undertaker's establishment at 3846 Lindbergh Boulevard to St. Mark's Catholic Church. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Bunch was born at New Orleans, Nov. 13, 1849. His father conducted one of the largest importing concerns in New Orleans and was a member of an old French family. Bunch studied law at New Orleans and practiced in Colorado. He later came to St.
Louis and practiced law here until he became ill several months ago. Death was due to infirmities of age.

It was explained, the equivalent of 45 miles of sugar-loaded railroad cars came into St. Louis by barge line at a saving of $298,415, with a total saving for the year of $10,198, on 351,043 tons of sugar, equivalent to 2,000 carloads a month.

Specific barge line rates and their margins under rail rates were cited in the printed program, ranging up from a carload saving of $16.20 on wooden barrels to carload savings on Pacific Coast shipments, of $1.02 on brass castings, $2.24 on linoleum and $6.48 on washers.

Savings on recent barge line shipments were cited as follows:

Reasons for Increased Traffic.

The extent of the river trade was set forth thus: "During 1925 there moved on the waterways of the United States 477,500,000 tons of commerce valued at $23,781,000,000. Of this amount more than 200,000,000 tons moved on rivers, canals and connecting waterways. Total increase of waterway traffic of 1926 over that for 1924 was 25,000,000 tons."

And the reason: "One dollar will ship a ton of freight four miles by horse and wagon; 20 miles by automobile truck; 150 miles by railroad; and 300 miles by river."

200 Mexican Rebels Killed.

MEXICO CITY, May 6.—Dispatches from Guadalajara today said the military commandant of the State of Jalisco had informed the Governor that about 200 rebels had been killed in an encounter with Federal troops. The soldiers fell upon the band, commanded by former Col. Cortes Ortiz, at Juchipila Canyon, in the northern part of Jalisco.

WHEN IN DOUBT MAKE AN OMELETTE

Various Combination of Sauces and Seasonings Make Omelettes Interesting Dishes.

Nutrition experts tell us that a more liberal use of eggs by the average American housewife is an efficient and economical thing to do. Instead of eggs for breakfast alone, let us consider eggs for breakfast, dinner and supper. Eggs served in combination with vegetables and meat, always with the idea of providing a balanced daily ration for the members of the family and through the use of eggs, insuring a diet rich in minerals, rich in vitamins and satisfying to the last extreme.

Omelettes are among the most savory of main dishes for serving at breakfast, luncheon or Sunday evening supper. The following omelette recipes make delicious dishes.

Ham Omelette. Chop cold cooked ham very fine, butter.

Put butter in frying pan and when melted add the chopped ham. Beat two or three eggs or as many as you wish to serve very light and season slightly. Pour over ham and fry until set.

Mexican Omelette. Roast a dozen fresh green peppers a few minutes, peel, remove the seeds and chop, when they should be boiled in a very little water until tender and seasoned well with butter. Beat six or eight eggs, add, with salt, to the peppers and fry all for a moment in hot Goody for Kellogg's!

"I'm always glad when mother sends me after Kellogg's Corn Flakes 'cause she gives me a big bowlful when I get back!"

No wonder kiddies love Kellogg's! It's matchless flavor and crispness! And Kellogg's are fine for them! So good and easy to digest!

Serve Kellogg's for breakfast, lunch, or for the kiddies' evening meal. With milk or cream. Extra delicious with canned or fresh fruits, or honey added. Served by hotels, diners. Sold by grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Oven-fresh in the inner-sealed red-and-green package. Imitations can't equal such wonder-flavor.

MIXED DIET CONSIDERED MOST HELPFUL DIET

It Offers Proper Proportions of Milk, Grains, Vegetables, Fruits and Meats.

So far as weight goes, this may usually be provided if we have what is known as a mixed diet. Be sure that the following is provided. For all the children one quart of milk apiece, if possible, fruit juice for the tender ones, and fruit for older children and adults; cereal for everyone; a strained green vegetable for the children of school age and a simply cooked green vegetable for the older children and grownups; eggs for the younger children and meat or meat substitutes for the rest of the family. So much for a mixed diet.

As for variety, this should not be difficult to manage. Generally speaking, breakfast has sufficient variety if there is a fruit, a cereal, an egg for the children, toast or rolls and coffee. The grown-ups usually need not begin with what there has been soup at noon. There need be only one main dish, vegetable besides potatoes, ad if one has not been served noon, and another simple dish such as a sandwich.

Such a diet provides sufficient variety and apportioning and yet does not place strain on the digestion. One more word about this. One of the most pernicious habits is to eat certain dishes that are in themselves very elaborate.

Thoughts on Breakfasts.
The type of bread served at breakfast may well depend somewhat on whether or not cereal is served. For example, if for any reason it is desirable to omit cereal, see that the breakfast toast is of the hearty variety such as graham.

whole wheat or bran. If, on the other hand, a hot cooked variety is served, it is well to serve it in the form of thin slices of white bread, nicely browned. The ability to visualize a meal according to types of foods served is a great help in concocting both a palatable and nourishing menu.

TRY USING STRAWBERRIES IN COMBINATION DISHES

Take Advantage of the Season and Serve This Delicious Fruit Every Day.

During these days when strawberries still continue to be considered something of a treat, why not try serving them in combination with other foods? In this way you may find it convenient to both inclination and purse to serve this luscious fruit at several meals each day during the season.

Try one or all of these recipes.

Strawberry Salad.
Take two cups of strawberries, one head of lettuce and a can of sliced pineapple.

On a slice of pineapple arrange a mound of strawberries, which have been washed, hulled and cut in halves. Serve on a bed of lettuce with this fruit dressing.

Fruit Dressing.
One-fourth teaspoon salt, two teaspoons sugar, two tablespoons lemon juice, two tablespoons orange juice, two tablespoons pineapple juice and four tablespoons salad oil.

Add seasonings to fruit juices and beat in salad oil.

Strawberry Ice.
One quart strawberries, hulled and rinsed, one or more cups of sugar to taste. Mash well. Add the juice of one lemon and three cups water. Strain and freeze.

Strawberry Dessert.
One-third cup rice, four cups boiling water, one tablespoon gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup fresh strawberries, one tablespoon lemon juice, one cup whipped cream.

Wash rice and cook in four cups boiling water, one tablespoon gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup fresh strawberries, one tablespoon lemon juice, one cup whipped cream.

PLANNING MENUS FOR
THE COMING WEEK

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER
FACTS CONCERNING NUTRITION AND CHILDREN SHOULD BE MEMORIZED.
It is extremely important to remember that if for any reason been washed, hulled and cut in halves. Serve on a bed of lettuce with this fruit dressing.

Fruit Dressing:
one-fourth teaspoon salt, two spoons sugar, two tablespoons orange juice, two tablespoons orange rind, two tablespoons pineapple rind and four tablespoons salad oil. Seasonings to fruit juices and in the oil.

Strawberry Ice:
one quart strawberries, hulled and rinsed, one or more cups of water to taste. Mash well. Add juice of one lemon and three cups water. Strain and freeze.

Strawberry Dessert:
one-third cup rice, four cups boiling water, one tablespoon gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup fresh strawberries, one tablespoon orange juice, one cup whipped cream.

Wash rice and cook in four cups of boiling water 35 minutes. Drain and dry in clean linen cloth. Soak gelatin in one-fourth cold water for 15 minutes. Boil by setting rice cup containing gelatin in a pan of hot water. Wash, drain and cut berries lengthwise into thin strips; lemon juice. To rice add dried gelatin and berries; then in whipped cream. Pour into mold and chill.

Spring Tonic
and SunshineCOPELAND, M. D.
Physician From New York.
of Health, New York City.

change of overcoats, a cold in the head and a bottle of iron and quinine tonic."

When will men learn that the best tonics in the world are provided by nature? They do not come in bottles or packages. They are in the air, the sunbeams, the fruit of the orchards and the plants of the field.

If you want a spring tonic, take it in great breaths of fresh air in the sunshine, and by having three meals of sensible food every day.

This is the salad season. I am not referring now to lobster, chicken or crab salad, but to the summer salads. Green things—lettuce, watercress, endive, romaine, cabbage, any of the leafy things—and for this purpose, making the foundation of the tonic salad you need.

All the fruits, apple, pear, peach, pineapple, orange, banana, grapefruit, strawberries, any kind of fruit may be added to the salad.

Various cooked vegetables—string beans, asparagus, peas; yes, know the list of things from which to choose the ingredients for your tonic salad.

Use the best of vinegar, the best of olive oil, the best of paprika, the best of mustard, the best of catsup—no matter what your favorite salad dressing may be, it is the best of ingredients, and mix them to your taste. Then pour the dressing over the tastily arranged salad mixtures. The result is a dish fit for a king.

The other day I had luncheon in one of the historical mansions of Washington. I can't recall another thing we had to eat, but the salad was so good I think of it longingly as I write. It was the best of dressed, of crisp lettuce with deliciously flavor French dressing. Then on the side of the plate was a generous helping of cottage cheese. It just hit the spot!

For your spring tonic take a salad.

New Dietary Theory.

Although early dietary studies led to the conclusion that men need more food than women, later ones have modified this somewhat. In the matter of protein requirements, for instance, it has been established that the requirements of men and women are practically the same when they are calculated in the same way in relation to body weight.

About Cream.

It is important to keep in mind the variations in cream. What is known as thin cream is practically the top. If the milk and cream for serving with cereals. Heavy cream is for those who wish to increase their intake of butter fat materially; while whipping cream is usually considered in connection with desserts.

[Main 1000]HOW COLLEGE GIRLS
ARE TAUGHT COOKINGThe Modern Girl Includes
Cookery in Her College Course.

The contribution of the modern women's colleges of this country to the cause of home economics, including knowledge of nutrition and food values and the education of better home cooks, is splendidly exemplified at Lindenwood College, St. Charles.

In the Economics Department at Lindenwood College, a class of nine girls will complete the course in foods and cookery this year.

Before they can receive any kind of a degree or certificate, each girl is required to give a formal dinner in the "Economics" Department apartment. This miniature home has a small living room, a dining room, butler's pantry and a kitchen in which are fully equipped with all modern conveniences and appointments.

Each girl treats the apartment as her own on the day she gives her company dinner.

She takes complete charge of the apartment, plans her menu (taking care to make it come within a certain cost usually around 75 cents a plate), selects her color scheme of decoration and makes out her order list of the articles she needs for the meal.

In cooking and serving the meal the girl is allowed the assistance of two students of the department who serve as general helpers and waitresses. The hostess for the day, however, is obliged to take her turn at playing maid and kitchen assistant as an evidence of her ability to master all phases of dinner giving and dinner serving.

At these demonstration dinners there must be three guests, one of whom must be a member of the faculty.

The first test dinner given by this year's class at Lindenwood took place last week with Miss Mildred Wilhams of Newport, Ark., as hostess. It was a typical Southern chicken dinner with the decorations and color scheme in red and white. President John L. Roemer and Mrs. Roemer and Miss Helen Campbell were the honor guests.

The menu was as follows:
Fruit cocktail
Fried chicken Gravy
New potatoes
Escaloped Asparagus
Cranberry Ice
Olives Celery
Rolls Stuffed tomato salad
Strawberry shortcake
CoffeeNuts Mints
A second dinner was given by Miss Mary Yancey who selected a yellow and white color scheme which was carried out in flowers, motifs, place cards and food with the following menu:
Grapefruit baskets
Fried chicken
Creamed peas Mashed potatoes
Asparagus tips Milk gravy
Celery Rolls Olives
Pineapple cheese salad
Saratoga flakes
Apricot cream Gold cake
CoffeesMints Nuts
The test dinners as planned and served by the Home Economics students at Lindenwood College are not only social events on the campus marking the completion of the students' course in foods and cookery, but also a distinct contribution to the educational needs of the day.

THREE VEAL DISHES

Savory and Satisfying for the Family Dinner.

To make a good dish of veal you will need a cube and a half of ground raw veal. Now mix together a half cup of soft white bread crumbs with a half cup of milk and cook, stirring constantly, until it forms a smooth paste. Mix this into the chopped veal together with a half teaspoon of salt, a tablespoon of tomato catsup, a dash of pepper, a tablespoon or more of lemon juice, and a tablespoon of minced sweet peppers if convenient. Minced parsley and lemon juice may also be added. Roll in dough or fine cracker crumbs. Have ready some good drippings in a frying pan, form the meat into balls, saute in the fat, and when nicely browned place in a casserole. Pour over a cup and a half of hot stock. Cover the casserole and cook an hour.

Delicate Veal.

(German.) Finely chop and pound one pound of veal tenderloin. Add an equal measure of fine bread crumbs moistened with sweet milk. Mix well and add one egg yolk and two stiffly beaten egg whites. Add enough milk to make a delicate paste. Season to taste with salt, paprika and onion juice, turn into a buttered pan, cover with a light water and bake about one hour in a moderate oven. Serve with or without a cream sauce.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Moers Marshall

A Woman's Illusion That Is Truth

JACOB WASSERMAN, German author of "The World's Illusion," has just sailed from New York with the sad parting word that there is no happiness in America. Men, Wasserman may know all about the world's illusion. But he thinks he has gone away ignorant of the illusion of many an American woman—Who believes—brightened as he may think her? That she is happy! And why not? It's no illusion, in our opinion—it's the truth! Honestly, did women ever come as close to getting an even break in work, in love, in education, in social position, in personal liberty? All American women today? They can hold almost every job which a man holds. And their pay and power in the economic world are increasing all the time. They are, in nine cases out of ten. The rulers of the men who love them. Probably nowhere in the world does an engaged girl or a wife have her own way as completely as she has it in America. SHE chooses what THEY shall do. Where THEY shall live, and on what scale.

How the home shall be furnished, the children disciplined, the vacation spent—She gets all the money the man can make for her. And when she isn't satisfied, he patiently tries to make more! Oh, of course, like other women. We criticize and laugh at the small failings of the American man—But, seriously and honestly, he is a decent sort—Especially where his women-folk are concerned.

All one need do is to read the novels of other nations. In order to realize how much luckier are sweethearts and wives there.

The American woman can—and does—go as far in education. As her brother.

She has a position, in our social world, every whit as desirable and respected as his—Even the "old maid" is no longer a cruel joke.

As for personal liberty, who possesses more of it

Than the American woman of today?

She may own a body healthfully clothed and exercised in sport. A vote, a latchkey, a pay envelope, a bank account.

A right to go where and when she pleases.

She has almost eliminated the chaperon. And Mrs. Grundy is tottering on her last legs—If the deaf lady will permit the word!

There is the economic servitude. Under which many women, like many men, must live, even in prosperous America; There are birth, death, illness, beauty and love.

Suffering which women everywhere will hardly escape. But making all allowance for the American woman's share in human hampering and pain.

She is—take her and her world for all in all—A happy woman! As even a melancholy German novelist might have discovered. If he had asked her!

PLATONIC FRIENDSHIP.

They talk about the weather. They talk about the play. They discuss the novelists—Of love they've naught to say.

She tells him of her many beauties. She asks for his advice; He tells her of his future plans. Of girls he thinks are nice.

And yet, at night, she dreams of him.

And thinks of him by day; And once he dropped a little poem While they were at the play.

She would not try to read it. Yet she could not help but see "To me dear beloved Alice"—And gasped: "He must mean me!"

They talk about the weather, They talk about the play. They discuss the novelists—Of love they've naught to say.

We Don't Know Where We're Going, but, Err...

Last—oh, much less than 20 years ago—we used to write interviews expressing the shocked indignation of New Yorkers over the new Ritz-Carlton's decision to allow ladies publicly to smoke a cigarette with their coffee. The American hinterlands squawked protest even louder than New York's, and wondered what we were coming to. Well, one bourse hidden behind the veil of the future was the recently announced "smoking room." With the smoking room belonging to the $3,000,000 mansion once owned by Cornelius Vanderbilt. "This chamber's inlaid glass and onyx splendors are about to adorn the largest and most elaborate smoking room for women in Kansas City."

In almost the same day's news, Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Pure Medicine, and a Methodist Episcopal Church calls women who smoke "feather-headed idiots."

Nevertheless, "the world do move"—whatever your opinion of this direction.

At all times during the massage,

Beauty of the Hands

By Lucrezia Bori

ENLARGED veins and enlarged joints are the two hardest problems to solve in achieving hand beauty. BUT they can be solved to a great extent by massage and a good muscle building cream.

Of course, it takes some time, probably six or eight weeks, before noticeable results are obtained. But then, this is not such a long time to effect the remedy of a condition that probably has been developing for a period of years.

While enlarged veins and joints are usually more noticeable among older people, the younger generation is showing evidence of this condition, possibly because of their indulgence in the more sturdy sports.

Use a good muscle-building cream to nourish the depleted tissues and massage it into the hands and fingers very gently.

The kneading or molding massage movement is used on the back of the hands followed by the more simple rotary movement.

Kneading or molding means gently, oh, so very gently, pinching up the flesh between the fingers and thumb. This same movement may be used on the fingers between the joints.

After massaging a liberal amount of muscle builder into the hands in this way, continue the massage, but change to the rotary movement, which means so much in making your cooking easier.

The Charter Oak Gas Range has 7 special features which you want—(1) the Wilcolator Oven Heat Regulator to give scientifically correct oven temperature and save gas, (2) an enamel lined oven, (3) spring balanced easy-opening doors, (4) "Pine Tree" broiler and oven burner with front lighter, (5) instantaneous pilot lighter, (6) pure, fresh air circulating through ovens, and (7) a handy undershelf under the burners.

With these 7 special features, the all new Charter Oak gives you a range which not only has remarkable results in cooking and baking, but is also to be polished. No visible bolts or hinges. Ask to see this range at your dealer's.

unless you learn to spell. If you can spell ocean right once you can do it twice and as many times after that as is necessary."

"I think he never looks at a word to see how it is spelled," said his teacher. "I don't believe he cares whether it is right or not."

"Then we'll make him conscious of every letter. We'll let him do his written work on a typewriter for the rest of this term. Then he'll have to watch and maybe he will learn to spell a bit better."

And he did. It was not that he couldn't spell. It was just that he had decided it didn't matter. He'd be promoted whether he could spell or not, why spell?

But sometimes children do not really use the word clearly. Their eyes are bad. When a child fails in spelling has his eyes and his ears examined lest he be working under the handicap of bad hearing or poor sight. Either of them will make a child a poor speller.

Some children can spell orally and cannot write the word. That means the child needs practice in writing the words. Nothing else is lacking. Some children are sound deaf. For those there is little to be done. We let them read sentences and copy them and read them. We have them trace words written with a roughened ink so as to get the feel of the form in their minds to help the other memories of it.

For all children the dictionary habit is good. Each school child should own a dictionary, one of those that has the word in large, clear type and but one or two definitions. Handling words, that is looking them up in print and writing them in script is the best way to learn to spell. Most of us can learn.

Looking Over the "Dates" After A Washington U. Affair

Sketched for the Post-Dispatch
By ELOISE FRAZIER

By ELOISE FRAZIER,

"LET'S eat!" These are magical words guaranteed to arouse action even in the most lethargic student. And judging from the mob which congregates at Garavelli's after any Washington University affair you might think that the majority of the student body are in the last stages of starvation.

Now there are three main reasons for the congregation. First to get a second, to be seen, and third to eat; all these amusements being obtained for a small consideration.

There is a definite course of action which is customarily followed when entering Garavelli's. You stand just inside the door for a moment looking for a friend and the headwaiter simultaneously.

Five minutes may be devoted to a perusal of the menu and a consideration of all the items, after which you order ham on rye and a "coke," this being what you've ordered every time for the past two years.

You are now free to scrutinize your companions. There are tables of fours, probably double ones, one man owning the machine, the other paying for the food. There are tables for two for men who "drive their own."

On the south side of the room, you then proceed immediately to one you've picked out on the north side.

Afternoon dress in white with narrow gold kid belt closing with a green jeweled buckle, green shoes combined with snake skin, green stockings, scarf of green and white, green bag and white hat and gloves.

That would take away the fun of guessing who dated with who and why, a topic which comprises most of the conversations. For example:

"My dear, who is that cute man Ruth's with tonight? I don't see why he dates her, she's such a mess."

"Say, who's the blond Frank's dragggin' nigh?" Don't know 'er. Must be a pledge."

"Good heavens, will you look who Martha's with! She certainly must have been hard up."

"Yeah, it sure was hot stuff."

"Why I thought she was wearing Lee's pin. Wonder if he knows she's out?"

And on and on ad infinitum.

Thursday night. I WENT back to work this morning, but I was not sure I should do it and I said to Joan, "Do you think I ought to start walking on this foot again?" and she said, "Why not?" and I said, "Well, it might not be good for the part walking too soon," and Joan said, "It wasn't a compound fracture, darling. You merely bruised a few toes," and I said, "I bet if it had happened to you, you would be hollering yet," and she said, "Well, you're hollering yet, aren't you?"

I started down to the office, and when I walked into the building I thought, gee, maybe I had better limp a little, because they are likely to think it was not serious enough for me to stay at home if I don't even have a limp, and I walked on in kind of slow.

She said, "You're lucky he wasn't a big tall one. He might have hit the head," and that's all she said, and I have come to the conclusion that women are just about as sympathetic when they are not married as when they are married, because how did she know but what I was in great danger, fighting a big desperate burglar?

Both of the city sales departments stopped work when I went to my desk, and I said, "Well, I'm back," and one of them said, "Back from where?" and I said, "Well, I'm back from being laid up. Didn't you know I was away?" and she said, "You city salesmen are in and out so as a master of course and in a very short time, I'll wager, people would be stopping me here and there and telling me with wide, admiring eyes how wonderfully well I was looking.

Choose simple, pleasant exercises, like biking with a jolly companion, eat simple, wholesome foods, eat practice taking life in general easily. Stop thinking on the path of greatest resistance—it is by no means a short cut to success, and I doubt very much if it ever can lead to beauty for anyone.

Something Different. To one cup of oatmeal add one teaspoonful of vanilla and cook as usual. Delicious! You never tasted oatmeal so good.

And then when I had gotten to the point where I could take a simple beauty treatment without looking upon it as a matter of life and death, I should have one a week, supplementing it with the use of a cleansing cream and a feeding cream every night at home, and I should do these things quite BEAUTY SPECIALIST! — And that is just the trouble. You have done too much, been a bit too anxious, my dear. With the very best intentions in the world you have been wearing your poor skin and nerves out. Tons of women are doing the same thing and, like you, are blaming fate for the results. Please take a hint from your sister Jenny. And don't do any more to your person than is required by good breeding for three months. Forget about the elaborate massages and the monastic diets and the cruel gymnastics and all the rest and spend your time cultivating serenity.

All the facial massages in Christendom and all the beauty baths will avail you if you approach them tensely and are anxious about results. But, oh, the miracles that a plaid aid has wrought without the aid of anything else!

Remember this always: "Nerves and beauty cannot occupy the same body. In the invincible twenties a woman may possibly 'get away with' bursts of temper, fretting, stewing and anxiety, but later on these things have a slow, sure, subtle way of etching themselves on the face affecting the walk and the gestures and the voice and the laugh."

INSTALLMENT XXXVII
THE RESCUE PARTY ARRIVES.

CARILLON sobbed frantically. Throughout her frenzied and frantic flight of protestations Bengal held her hair close. Perhaps at any other time, in a less weakened state, he might instantly have caught the meaning of it all. But he was spent, exhausted, and so stupendous a thought was slow in getting through to him. Also, like Carillon, even while understanding, he still needed a weight of conviction. More of the reagent is needed to neutralize a concentrated solution of the antidote to quench the toxic action of a poison.

"Carillon, sweet, do you mean . . . are you trying to tell me that these jewels say nothing to you any more?"

"Nothing. No, that's not the word, old sweet. They say everything that is hateful and loathsome, and wretched, and shameful, and distressing. Their power over me is dead, and so are they. I am immune, free . . . Bungle, I tell you I am cured. No wonder it's hard for you to believe. It's even harder for me to understand. I scarcely know what I feel. I know that they leave me cold. I don't want them. I don't want a gem ever to touch my body again. I hate them . . . and I'll hate them more and more as I go on and on. As we go on and on, dearest man of mine."

She began to laugh, not wildy, but with a deep thrilling note of happiness. "Look here, Bungle mine . . ." She stooped and gathered up the emerald pendant, the pearls, the diamond and ruby bracelet. "These are my own. I used to kiss and fondle them, hold them against my lips, play with them and flash them in the sun . . . and go nearly mad with joy at the sheer beauty of them. Well, this is the way I love them now, the nasty little beasts . . ."

She freed herself from his clasp, stepped away a pace, then took the splendid pendant in her hand. Her long bare arm flashed in a wider arc as she threw. Bengal, watching her, half fascinated, half in horror, saw a thin parabolic curve described in a pale green line. Far out in the still water there was a little splash, a very little splash. "Carillon . . ." he cried, astagh, them his lips closed firmly. "That will never turn any woman's head. One less mischievous. And here's another . . . to where I thought you had gone." She threw again. This time the flash was brighter, small scintillating sparks, and the vanishing impression of a ruddy glow. Bengal saw the splash was louder.

She Tattered Toward Him, Arms Outstretched.

Carillon gathered up the lustrous pearls, held them in the hollow of her hand, staring at them under knitted brows. They seemed to endear him in their soft, smooth, pale, pale glow, and she was about to plead for mercy, when "You are the worst of all, you soft little devils," she said in a low voice. "You came from the sea. You started as tiny grains to grow and swell and torment weak minds with your beauty. One mind is stronger now, and back you go in grains."

She was standing beside a flat-topped rock, of which there were some smaller fragments strewn about. Then, very gently, she laid down the pearls on the flat rock, picked up a small piece of coral or some other fish, and smashed it down on them. Again and again she struck, with a sort of savage relish.

Gathering up the powdery residue, she blew it in the air.

"Now will you believe, Bungle? Do you understand at last? I tell you that I am free, sir. I am free to love you, to marry you, and you need have no fear. It's gone, never to return. These were my pets, my favorites, the ones I loved the best. I don't say that I shall do the same with all my others, but one thing is certain, that I shall never touch them again. You shall get rid of them. They are yours, to do as you like with, Bungle, dear . . ."

She tottered toward him, arms outstretched, her supple body swaying "and so am I . . ."

To Bengal, on watch while Carillon slept, came a faint sound that was quick to recognize. It might be menacing or the reverse.

It was the distant thrashing of a motor. Bengal started to his feet, turned his head to examine the source of the noise, but they were still too indistinct to tell him much.

He had crossed to the abandoned camp, and finding the awning where he had flung it down, he slashed off some squares of heavy canvas, rolled them up, and brought them back for protection against the dew and morning chill.

Carillon now slept peacefully under the awning, his back against the altar on which Carillon had made sacrifice or votive offering of his pearls, and cowled himself with the other pieces, and dozing with his ribs between his knees, suggested a human bandit keeping guard over his captive in the white searing flame of moonlight on the shores of the Adriatic.

His good ear presently reported a familiar rhythm in the beat of that engine, distant, as it was. Here came Rigel hastening back to Verde, a little late for the show, but in time to congratulate the leading lady and her male support in the melodrama. Bengal laid aside his bournous and climbed atop the sacrificial altar. Sure enough, there was the Rigel no great distance off, her tall spars silencing as she cut her way clearly through the molten silver sea.

Bengal did not rouse Carillon. He stood there like a superimposed monolith sharply chiselled against the pale swimming sheen of sky, and the dark, silvery water, both clear and dark against this background with the moon to silhouette him. He began to semaphore with his arms. Almost instantly a blinder sparked out in answer, then asked: "How about Carillon?" Those dots and dashes of light would be from Howland, no doubt Bengal signaled: "Carillon safe. All well. Dodd sending . . ."

Close into the shore the yacht's wake was checked and her boats splashed down. Bengal could see a swarm of men pouring into them. Most of them were in dark clothes. Some others, who were quite conspicuous. The would be Gertude, brave girl. He wondered if she would believe in the truth of all he had to report, or regard the miracle a bit askance, as another facet of Carillon's many.

The landing party foamed shoreward, landed with no difficulty, as the sea was absolutely still, and came pouring up over the rocks. Bengal did not go to meet them, and did not rouse Carillon. She was not encouraged to believe visiting strangers had reflected Better to hold this levee after the fashion of Elizabethan royalty, in Waiting, himself Captain of the Guard. It might be advisable to warn her, though, lest in her excitement she expose herself to alien eyes.

Bengal clambered down off the rock and laid his hand on her shoulder. She awakened with a start.

"Rigel is back," Bengal said gently. "They are landing on the rocks now. He cocked his head like a dog . . . like a dog . . . they must have struck the bush."

Carillon gave a low laugh. "Yes, you can hear them swearing at the thorns." She flung back her coverlet and sat up.

"As you were . . ." Bengal then pushed her back and replaced the canvas. "Remember that you are not costumed to receive visitors."

"That's so. I forgot. One soon gets used to negligence."

Modern Home Equipment

By Wanda Barton

IN getting the house or apartment ready for summer, there are many things needed. The vacuum cleaner will clean all the rugs that do not need to be sent away for scouring; also all heavy draperies. The attachment for cleaning radiators is a great boon and to use it properly, first cover the radiator with a damp sheet which will take up all the heavy dirt instead of sending it through the air. We do not realize how dirty the radiator is until we examine the sheet.

The vacuum brushes will also clean the walls, though many housekeepers use a lamb's wool brush afterward to take off any smoke that remains. There is a choice of ladders, depending on height and size needed for general work. One ladder worth considering is the collapsible, which may be put back of the door when not in use.

Most housekeepers are acquainted with the so-called housemaid's basket, which is of the ends and holds all needfuls, such as brushes and cleaning agents. It may be needed for a morning's cleaning. The basket saves many a trip up and down stairs for things usually forgotten.

Long-handled floor brushes and dustpans save unnecessary bending over this daily job. Dust brushes have improved along new lines and we find nowadays instead of old feather dusters, new ones made of cut wool that has been specially treated so that they not only dust, but polish as they go.

Besides the usual window chamois that nearly everyone uses for cleaning, there is a chamois-faced mitt that is slipped over the hand for the final polishing of glass. The mitts are also good for looking glasses and picture glasses that must be held firmly as they are wiped.

Many women are wearing the white canvas industrial gloves to save their hands when doing rough work. They are inexpensive and good for the purpose.

Children's Bedtime Story

Peter Rabbit Grows Bold

Times there are, so we are told,
When it is proper to be bold.

—Peter Rabbit.

Peter headed toward that tent and staring at that big tent and working his wobbly little nose and stretching his legs and pulling his funny little chills running all over him, while he tried to make up his mind what to do. By and by he hopped a few steps nearer. He lay down flat and poked his wobbly little nose under the edge of the tent. Right in front of him was a wagon wheel. He knew it was a wagon wheel, for, of course, he had often seen wagon wheels at Peter's home.

Peter headed toward that tent. He would hop a few steps, then sit up and look and listen. After a moment or two, he would hop a few steps more, then sit up and look and listen. He was so interested in his adventure that he once thought to look out for Rody Fox or Old Man Coyote, or Hooty the Owl. As a matter of fact, he was quite safe from them, for they were keeping far away. You see, with them, curiosity didn't overtake fear.

Finally Peter was right close up to the big tent. Then he stopped and looked and listened for a long, long time. Right in front of him was a place where he could crawl under. "Go ahead and do it," whispered Common Sense.

"Don't you do it; it isn't safe," said Common Sense.

"You'll never have another chance like this," said Curiosity.

"You don't know what might happen to you," warned Common Sense.

"Those who are never bold never see or learn anything," whispered Curiosity.

"The bold do not always live long," warned Common Sense.

"There are some strange people in there you ought to see," prompted Curiosity.

"If you go inside you may never come out again," said Common Sense.
